REPORT

TO

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE JOHN BURNS, M.P.,

PRESIDENT OF THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD.

GENERAL REGISTER OFFICE,

December, 1905.

SIR,

WE have the honour to lay before you the accompanying Report and Summary of the Census of the British Empire in the year 1901.

The collection, analysis, and arrangement of this large mass of statistical material has involved the expenditure of much time ; and the postponement, on account of the War, of Census operations in the South African Colonies has led to considerable delay in the presentation of our Report.

Since the year 1861 it has been customary to give in the English Reports a summary of the Census Returns of the British Colonies and Possessions. The Summaries, which in 1861 and 1871 had contained tabular excerpts from the Colonial Returns, were in 1881 and 1891 limited to statements of Area and Population ; no attempt being made to deduce from these Statistics a comparison of the social condition of the several peoples living within the British Dominions.

While the tabulation of the results of the recent English Census was in progress, the then Colonial Secretary expressed a wish that the Statistics contained in the reports of the several British Colonies, Dependencies, and Protectorates should be collated and analysed, and that comparative Tables should be prepared similar to those employed in the English Report ; and, further, that the whole should be embodied in a separate volume to be styled " The Census of the British Empire."

On examination of the available returns it was found impracticable, owing to the varying conditions of life in different parts of the Empire, and to the want of uniformity in the methods of construction and tabulation of the Colonial Censuses, to prepare a Report on the precise lines of the English Census Report.

The annexed series of comparative and detailed Tables have, however, been constructed for each British Colony, Dependency and Protectorate, giving as fully as the data permit, information concerning (a) area and dwelling houses, (b) number of the people, distinguishing age, sex, and condition as to marriage, (c) birth-places of the people, their religion, education, occupation, and their infirmities.

The Reports from which the appended Tables have been derived range in bulk from a ten page pamphlet concerning the 2,253 inhabitants of the Falkland Islands to an elaborate review extending to more than 60 volumes dealing with the manifold races of our Indian Empire, the population of which approaches 295 million persons speaking not fewer than 147 distinct vernacular languages.

We gladly embrace the present opportunity of congratulating the many able Administrators of India, Ceylon, Australasia, South Africa, and of our other British Possessions on the successful enumeration of their respective populations.

Census taking in some of the British Dominions beyond the Seas presents special difficulties; among which may be mentioned the abnormal climatic conditions, the large and sparsely populated areas to be covered, the impassability of many of the roads, and the want of competent Enumerators; and also the ignorance and superstition of the native races, some of which are stated to fear that Census particulars may be used for purposes of increased taxation. These difficulties are enhanced by the fact that the British Empire extends to every Continent and climate, and includes representatives of practically every race, creed, language, and caste.

In some of our East Indian and in certain of our African Possessions, as well as in a few of the West Indian Islands, the Authorities were, for financial or other reasons, unable to take a complete Census. The best available estimates of such populations have, however, been inserted in the Tables, but these populations amounted to less than one-tenth part of the total for the British Empire, which numbered in the aggregate nearly 400 millions.

I.—AREA.

Growth of Territory.

At the time of the Census of 1861 the Empire comprised, in round numbers, eight and a half millions of square miles; in the next two decennia no important territorial additions took place, but between 1881 and 1891 the extensions in the East Indies and in our Indian Dependency, and the great annexations of territory in West, South, East, and Central Africa added about two millions of square miles; since 1891 further expansions have occurred, principally in Africa and in Asia, raising the grand total, as nearly as can be ascertained, to 11,908,378 square miles; thus, in the short space of 40 years, the aggregate area of our Colonies, Dependencies, and Protectorates has increased by about 40 per cent., and now amounts to more than one-fifth of the land surface of the Globe.

Distribution in Continents.

Of this huge territory, somewhat more than four millions of square miles are situated in North, Central, and South America; three millions in Australasia; two and a half millions in Africa; and nearly two millions in the Indian Empire and other parts of Asia; while the portion that lies in Europe constitutes a very inconsiderable fraction of the whole, amounting to only 125,095 square miles, of which 121,089 constitute the area of the United Kingdom.

II.—POPULATION.

Growth of Population.

As far as can be ascertained, the population of the British Empire in 1861, inclusive of the Indian Feudatory States, was about 259 millions; in 1871 it had risen to nearly 283 millions; in 1881 to nearly 310 millions; in 1891, largely through acquisitions of territory, to more than 381 millions; and at or about the date of the Census of 1901 it had reached a total of about 400 millions.*

Distribution in Continents.

The distribution, in 1901, of the population of the Empire in the several Continents was as follows:—In Asia there were more than 300 millions, in Africa about 43 millions, in America 7½ millions, in Australasia more than 5 millions, in our Mediterranean Possessions nearly half a million, and in the Islands in the British Seas 150,000, while the remaining 41½ millions were enumerated within the limits of the United Kingdom.

Previous Censuses not strictly comparable.

At the earlier Censuses for the Indian Empire and some of our other possessions the enumerations of the populations were incomplete, and in some cases the real increase of population was obscured by the gradual extension of the area included in the Census operations. For instance the total populations enumerated at the last three Indian Censuses included 33, 5½, and 2½ million persons respectively living in areas that were then enumerated for the first time.

* Exclusive of the population of North-Western Rhodesia for which no estimate could be obtained.

For the latter reason it is exceedingly difficult to distinguish in what proportions the accretions of population in the whole Empire were due (1) to added territory, and (2) to actual increase; an attempt has nevertheless been made in the subjoined statement to give approximate proportions for the four past intercensal periods.

Rates of increase in four decennia, showing effect of additions to territory.

Intercensal Period.	Increase per cent. of Population in the British Empire.
	Total.	By added Territory.	By actual Increase.
1861–71	9·2	0·0	9·2
1871–81	9·5	0·1	9·4
1881–91	23·1	12·4	10·7
1891–1901	4·4	1·4	3·0

It will be observed that for the whole Empire the aggregate rate of increase of population showed a great decline in the last decennium; this was mainly due to the fall in the rate of increase of the population of the Indian Empire, in the Native States and Agencies of which there was an actual decrease of 5·5 per cent. The comparatively small increase in the Indian population between the Censuses of 1891 and 1901 was in great part due to famine and plague—these disasters, with their attendant excessive mortality, having also adversely affected the birth-rate.

The rate of increase in the population of the British Empire as a whole is necessarily to a great extent governed by that which obtains in the vast population of India: it may be interesting therefore, by excluding the population of that Country, to show the growth of population in the remainder of the Empire; this has been done in the following Table:—

Rates of increase, excluding India.

Intercensal Period.	Increase per cent. of Population in the British Empire, excluding India.
	Total.	By added Territory.	By actual Increase.
1861–71	11·9	0·1	11·8
1871–81	15·3	0·8	14·5
1881–91	81·7	70·1*	11·6
1891–1901	13·7	5·1	8·6

* Mainly due to the acquisition of Nigeria, East Africa Protectorate, Uganda, British Central Africa, Rhodesia, &c.

From the foregoing statement, it will be seen that, excluding India, the rate of actual increase in the Empire, which had been 11·8 per cent. between 1861 and 1871, rose to 14·5 per cent. between 1871 and 1881, and then fell to 11·6 and 8·6 per cent. respectively in the next two decennia. The decline in the rate of actual increase is therefore not confined to the Indian Empire.

A large factor connected with this fall in the increase of the population is the continued depression of the birth-rate, which has now become general in nearly all countries. In Australasia, and especially in South Australia, in Victoria, and in New South Wales (where the matter has recently been reported upon by a Royal Commission), the fall in the birth-rate is remarkable.

In order to obtain a comparative view of the growth of population in the several parts of the Empire the following Table has been drawn up which gives, so far as the figures are available, the population at the past five Censuses of the United Kingdom and

* Figures wholly or partly estimated.

(a) Adding estimates of population for certain parts not enumerated at the earlier Censuses, the rates of increase become 6·8, 10·9, and 1·5 per cent. respectively, but if a further correction be made for errors in the earlier enumerations, the true rate of growth in the intercensal period 1872–1881 is estimated to have been possibly nil, and certainly not more than 1·5 per cent., and in the two later periods, 9·8 and 1·5 per cent. respectively.

(b) The Census years to which the figures for the Cape of Good Hope relate are 1856, 1865, 1875, 1891, and 1904 respectively. The rates of increase during the last three intercensal periods for the Colony as constituted in 1865 were 20·6, 38·7, and 44·4 per cent. respectively.

(c) The number given for Natal in the last column is the population enumerated in 1904.

(d) The Census years to which the figures for Newfoundland relate are 1857, 1869, 1884, 1891, and 1901 respectively.

Except in the cases of India and Ceylon, little information can be gleaned from the Census Reports respecting the causes of the increase or decrease in the growth of population; the general deduction, however, to be drawn from the above figures is that, in the short period under review, a progressive rate of increase in the several populations has not been maintained. Decline is particularly noticeable in the Indian Empire, the small rate of increase in our great Dependency in the last intercensal period being, as already stated, mainly due to the effects of famine and plague: a decline in the rate of increase is also apparent in the Straits Settlements, in Mauritius, in the Dominion of Canada, and in New Zealand. In the Straits Settlements there appears to be a fall to a normal rate of increase (11·8 per cent.) following three decennia of exceptional growth in which the rates per cent. were 40·0, 37·4 and 21·1 respectively. The Dominion of Canada as a whole shows a more steady decline in its rate of growth, although in some of the provinces the population is still increasing rapidly—the increase per cent. during the last intercensal period amounting to 67·3 in Manitoba, 82·0 in British Columbia, and 137·9 in the North West Territories. The increase in New Zealand, although it was only 21·8 per cent. in 1891–1901 against 90·5 in 1861–71 is still considerable, and it may be observed that, notwithstanding the rate of increase in the later being less than one-fourth of that in the earlier period, the actual gain to the population was 146,064 persons in 1891–1901, against 139,599 in 1861–71.

The rate of increase, however, in certain of our Colonies where it had declined in previous years, for example, in Natal, the West Indies and Ceylon, shows a rising tendency in the last decennial period.

It appears from the Report on the Census of Ceylon that the decline in the rates of increase for 1871–81 and 1881–91 was due to the decay of the coffee-growing industry, and that the upward tendency noted in the last decennium may be explained by the return of prosperity following the introduction of tea cultivation. On the other hand, in the Australian Commonwealth the rate of increase, which had been as high as 40·4 in the decennium 1881–91, fell in the next decennium to 18·6; the rates of increase for the several States showed wide variation, being 5·3 in Victoria, 13·2 in South Australia, 17·6 in Tasmania, 20·0 in New South Wales, 26·3 in Queensland, and as high as 241·5 in Western Australia.

III.—DENSITY OF POPULATION.

Methods of expressing Density.

The relation between the area of a Country and the number of its inhabitants is commonly expressed by one of three methods: (1) by stating the average number of persons living on each square mile or acre, (2) by stating the average number of square miles or acres available for each person, and (3) by stating the number of yards separating each individual, if the population were distributed uniformly over the surface of the whole Country.

Persons per square mile in the several parts of the Empire.

Adopting the first and perhaps the most convenient method of measuring the degree of aggregation of population it will be seen that the average density in the parts of the British Empire in each Continent was as follows:—

—	Persons per square mile.	—	Persons per square mile.
British Empire	33·5	Colonies, Dependencies, Protectorates, &c. (continued):—
United Kingdom	342·4	In America...	1·9
Isle of Man and Channel Islands	496·3	North America	1·4
Colonies, Dependencies, Protectorates, &c.:—		West Indies and Central America.	82·5
In Europe	127·6	South America	2·7
In Asia	161·7	In Australasia	1·6
Indian Empire	172·0	Australian Commonwealth ...	1·3
Other Possessions	42·0	New Zealand	7·8
In Africa	16·3	Other Possessions	5·0
West Africa	52·0
South Africa	4·1
Other Possessions	16·0

In the United Kingdom there were 342·4 persons to a square mile, and in the Indian Empire 172·0, while in the Dominion of Canada and in the Australian Commonwealth the density was as low as 1·4 and 1·3 persons per square mile respectively.

Among individual Colonies with an exceptionally high density of population may be mentioned—Gibraltar, Hong Kong, Malta, and Penang Island. It should be observed, however, that the areas of these places are physically restricted, not one of them covering as much space as does the County of London; their density is therefore hardly comparable with that of other Colonies.

In England and Wales the density of the population was as high as 558 persons per square mile; then follow some of the Indian provinces (viz., Oudh with a density of 535, Bengal 495, Madras States 420, and Agra 419), and Mauritius and Dependencies, 453. On the other hand, in British Columbia, in the North West Territories, and the Unorganised Territories of the Dominion of Canada, in Labrador, in Bechuanaland Protectorate, and in Queensland, South Australia, and Western Australia the density averaged less than one person per square mile.

IV.—TOWNS.

Number of large Towns.

Throughout the Empire there were no fewer than 187 Cities or Towns in which the populations, as enumerated at the last Census, exceeded 50,000 persons: of these 87 were situated in the United Kingdom, 78 were in India, 7 in Australasia, 5 in the Dominion of Canada, 2 in the West Indies, 2 in the Straits Settlements, and one apiece in the Colonies of Hong Kong, Ceylon, Mauritius, Cape of Good Hope, Natal and the Transvaal.

Rates of increase in large Towns.

Table 3 of the Summary gives the populations, at the Censuses of 1891 and 1901, of the most important Towns in the United Kingdom and the Colonies, together with the rates of increase and decrease in the intercensal period. As examples of the growth of Urban communities, we may quote the following Towns, with populations exceeding 150,000 persons at the date of the last Census, in each of which the population had increased during the decennium by over 20 per cent.

It is not, however, among the very large towns that the greatest proportional growth is apparent; the Report on the English Census shows that in England and Wales the highest rate of increase occurred among the medium sized towns, and the same may be said generally of our Colonial Cities. For instance, on reference to Table 3, it will be found that the rate of increase in the last intercensal period exceeded 50 per cent. in the following Towns, in which the population ranged from 25,000 to 78,000 at the date of the last Census, viz.:—Cape Town, East London, Durban (white population only), Vancouver, Winnipeg, Perth (Western Australia), Port of Spain, and Kuala Lumpur in the Malay States. On the other hand, there are twelve towns mentioned in the Table in which an actual decrease of population was recorded; these were as follows:— Towns with decreasing populations.

Growth of certain Towns.

Although the Census results are mainly concerned with present conditions and recent movements of population, it may be interesting to refer to the growth, during an extended period, of a few of the largest Colonial Cities.

Calcutta.

Excluding London, the most populous City in the British Empire at the present time is Calcutta, the population of which in 1710 was about ten or twelve thousand; thence it grew rapidly, and by the middle of the eighteenth century was estimated to have exceeded 100,000; by the year 1850 it was at least 400,000; the Census of 1872 showed a population of 633,000, which, after a slight fall in 1881, rose to 682,000 in 1891, and further rose to nearly 848,000 in 1901.

Bombay.

The City of Bombay, which passed from Portuguese to English rule in 1661 by the Treaty on the occasion of the marriage between Charles II. and the Infanta of Portugal, rapidly developed in the next fourteen years from a town of 10,000 to one of 60,000 inhabitants. In 1780 the population had risen to 100,000, in 1836 to 236,000, and in 1872 to 644,000, or more by 11,000 than that of Calcutta at the same date. In 1891 the population stood at 821,764; for the next five years the city doubtless continued to grow, but since then the plague, which first appeared in September, 1896, has struck a severe blow at its prosperity, the result being that, instead of a further increase being recorded at the last Census, the population had declined to 776,000.

Sydney and Melbourne.

The growth of the two chief Cities of Australia has been remarkable. In 1841 the population of Sydney numbered about 30,000, and that of Melbourne was less than 5,000. In the space of 20 years the population of Sydney had increased to nearly 96,000, while that of Melbourne had shown even greater progress, the population in 1861 numbering nearly 140,000—this remarkable advance being due to the discovery of gold in Victoria in the "fifties." At the Census of 1881, 225,000 persons were enumerated in Sydney, and 283,000 in Melbourne, and at the last Census (1901) the population in each City had increased to little short of half a million, the exact numbers enumerated being 487,932 in Sydney and 496,079 in Melbourne. The rate of increase, however, in the last decennium was only 1·1 per cent. in Melbourne as against 25·9 per cent. in Sydney. This centralisation of population indicates that in 1901 more than one-third of the population of New South Wales, and quite two-fifths of the population of Victoria, were enumerated in the respective State Capitals.

Montreal.

Montreal, the largest City in British North America, was founded in the year 1642, and was transferred from the French to the British Government in 1760. The population in 1815 numbered about 15,000, since which year the growth of the City has been extraordinary; in 1851 the population had increased to over 57,000, and in the next 20 years this number had doubled. In 1881 it had reached over 155,000, in 1891 it had risen to over 220,000, and at the last Census it had further risen to nearly 268,000. Of the population enumerated at the last Census, about 43 per cent. were stated to be of French descent.

Urban and Rural Distribution of Population.

Owing to various causes, but principally to the development of manufacturing industries, there is an ever increasing tendency amongst most European populations to congregate in Urban areas. This aggregation of population in cities, and consequent depopulation of Rural areas, presents amongst the older communities one of the most important social difficulties of the day. For this reason the information afforded by the Colonial Census returns as to the Urban and Rural distribution of population possesses special interest.

In the United Kingdom.

Of the population enumerated in the United Kingdom at the last Census, over 71 per cent. were living in towns, the proportions in the three divisions of the Kingdom being 31 per cent. in Ireland, 70 per cent. in Scotland, and 77 per cent. in England and Wales.

In Australasia.

New Zealand and the Commonwealth of Australia together contain a population exceeding 4½ millions, of which more than one-half were enumerated in Town areas, the proportions of Urban population in the several States being as follows:—

—	Proportion per cent. of Urban Population.	—	Proportion per cent. of Urban Population.
New South Wales	68	South Australia	39
Victoria	54	Queensland	39
Western Australia	51	Tasmania	39
New Zealand	43

In the Dominion of Canada about 38 per cent. of the population were resident in Urban Areas. Here again the proportions in the several Provinces varied considerably as shown by the following figures :— In Canada.

—	Proportion per cent. of Urban Population.	—	Proportion per cent. of Urban Population.
British Columbia	50	North West Territories	24
Ontario	43	New Brunswick	23
Quebec	40	Unorganised Territories	17
Nova Scotia	28	Prince Edward Island	14
Manitoba	28

In our four South African Colonies, the Rural population, as might be expected, largely predominates. The following are the results shown at the recent Census taken in 1904 :— In South Africa.

—	Proportion per cent. of Urban Population.	—	Proportion per cent. of Urban Population.
Cape of Good Hope	26·2	Transvaal	19·6*

* Excluding Military Population.

The conditions in India afford a striking contrast to those prevailing in other parts of the British Empire ; for of the aggregate population of nearly 295 millions, less than one-tenth live in places classed as Urban Areas, the remaining nine-tenths residing in Villages. According to the Indian Census Report there are only 29 Cities in the whole of India with populations exceeding 100,000 persons. These Cities had an aggregate population of somewhat over 6½ millions, or little more than 2 per cent. of the total population of the Indian Empire. Of the Urban population, more than half are found in towns with at least twenty thousand inhabitants, about one-fifth in towns with from ten to twenty thousand, and the same proportion in towns with from five to ten thousand, while about one-sixteenth dwell in smaller towns. The Report goes on to state, however, that the industrial and commercial awakening of India, of which the first signs are already apparent, may result in a marked increase in its City population at no very distant date. In India.

In Ceylon the proportions of Urban and Rural population were 12 and 88 per cent. respectively. In Ceylon.

V.—SEXES.

The sex constitution of the population varies very considerably in the several parts of the Empire ; the factors to which these variations are attributable, either singly or in combination, may be summarised as follows :— Sex constitution.

The varying proportions of—

(1) Male to Female Births.

(2) Male to Female Deaths.

(3) Male to Female Emigration and Immigration.

In European Countries, with few exceptions, the females out-number the males ; such is the case in the United Kingdom and in several of the Colonies ; but in the larger and more populous Colonies the reverse is the case. General excess of Males.

The following statement indicates the principal parts of the Empire in which the male and female sexes are respectively in excess.

Immigration the principal cause of excess of males.

A comparison of the two lists shows, as might be expected, that, speaking generally, it is in those places where the growth of population is mainly due to the excess of immigration that the male sex preponderates to the greatest degree. Thus the four Colonies with the highest proportions of males are those in which immigration has been especially noticeable, viz.:—Western Australia, Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, and Hong Kong.

In Western Australia the immigrant population numbered 131,461 persons, of whom 86,346 were males and only 45,115 females, the remaining 26,529 males and 26,134 females having been born in the Colony. For the Straits Settlements it is impossible, owing to the absence of complete Birth-place statistics, to determine precisely the effect of immigration on the sex proportions. It may be seen, however, that it is solely among the alien races that the excess of males obtains; among the Malay and other native races of the Archipelago the proportions of each sex are practically equal, while among the other races, the proportion per cent. of males is 66·9 among Europeans and Americans, 73·9 among Indians, and 77·8 among Chinese. The Chinese amount to almost half of the total population, and, excluding Christmas Island, comprise 219,204 males and only 62,729 females, of whom 21,639 males and 22,383 females were said to be "Straits-born." It follows, therefore, that in the Straits Settlements the disparity between the numbers of the two sexes is mainly due to the large volume of Chinese male immigrants. Without going into great detail, it may be stated that in the Federated Malay States the high proportion of males (72·0 per cent.) is due to the numbers of Chinese attracted thereto by the development of the tin-mining industry; while in Hong Kong the 72·6 per cent. of males in the population consists principally of Chinese from the mainland.

Causes of excess of males. In India.

The causes of the excess of one or other of the sexes are not generally discussed at length in the Colonial Census Reports. It may, however, be interesting to quote the following passage from the Report on the Census of India—a country in which the amount of migration is too small relatively to the enormous native population to have an appreciable effect on the sex constitution of the population:—

> "The difference in the proportion of the sexes shown by the Census statistics may be due to three causes, viz.:—
> (1) A more complete enumeration of the male population.
> (2) A larger number of male Births.
> (3) A heavier mortality amongst females.
> It is conceivable that females may be omitted from the return either because their male relatives regard them as of no importance in connection with an enquiry such as the Census, or because they have some special reason for not mentioning them."

In Ceylon.

In Ceylon it is stated that "the normal condition is a larger boy-birth," and "on the other hand that the female mortality is higher than the male"; the predominant factor, however, as in nearly every other case, is the balance of migration, there being little emigration from Ceylon, but a considerable amount of immigration into that Colony.

In Malta.

The comparatively high proportion of males in the Maltese Islands is due to the presence there of a large naval and military population, for if these are excluded it will be found that the females slightly out-number the males.

VI.—AGES.

Returns not uniform.

Although returns of the ages of the population are not available for some few of the Colonies in which Censuses were taken, it is possible to obtain figures for nearly all the most important of them. When, however, an attempt is made to compare the age distribution of the population in the several Colonies we are met with considerable difficulties; firstly, owing to the want of uniformity in the groups of ages selected for tabulation by the several Authorities, and, secondly, owing to the known liability to error in all Returns of Ages.

Want of accuracy in the Returns.

From the English Census Reports it may be seen that there are two main causes affecting the accuracy of the age Returns; the first is that a large proportion of persons do not know their precise age, and can only state it approximately, using some exact multiple of ten, such as 30, 40, 50; the second cause is the wilful mis-statement of age, which is far more common amongst women than amongst men. It is more than probable, therefore, that, in places where conditions for obtaining reliable data are less favourable than in this country, the accuracy of the age Returns can only be considered as roughly approximate.

The following Table shows for the principal areas for which figures are available the proportions of the male and female populations respectively at six groups of ages. The aggregation of the ages in large groups, which is necessary owing to want of uniformity in the several returns, has the advantage of minimising the errors due to mis-statement :—

* In the Indian Empire and in Ceylon the last two age-groups are 45–60 years and 60 years and upwards.

The differences in the age distribution of the populations as shown in the Table are considerable; they are mainly due to two causes—(a) variations in the rates of natural increase; and (b) gains and losses by migration. Other things being equal, a population in which a comparatively high birth-rate prevails contains a large proportion of persons at the earlier ages and a small proportion at the later ages. Thus in Ceylon, which has a high and an increasing birth-rate, the proportion of both male and female children is greater than in any other Colony. Causes of variation in age-constitution.

A leading place in the Table is occupied by the Indian Empire which also has a very high birth-rate; here the proportion of children would probably be greater than it is had it not been for the heavy mortality from plague and famine during the past decennium. Another example is that of Newfoundland and Labrador, in the small aggregate of 220,984 persons inhabiting which Colony a comparatively high birth-rate prevails, together with a correspondingly large proportion of children in the population.

The effect of migration on the age constitution of a population is considerable. For example, the low proportion of children and the high proportion of old people enumerated in Ireland are mainly accounted for by excessive emigration. During the 50 years 1851–1901 no fewer than 3,846,393 Irish persons left the country with the intention of settling elsewhere; and in the decennium 1891–1900, the ages of 91 per cent. of the emigrants were returned as between 10 and 45 years. On the other hand, the effect of immigration on the age constitution of a population is well illustrated in such Colonies as Hong Kong, Western Australia, Sierra Leone, Trinidad, the Straits Settlements, and Queensland, where the proportions of males aged 25–45 years were abnormally high, ranging from 32 to 46 per cent. of the total male population.

In presenting Census statistics it is usual to group ages in quinquennial or decennial periods, and to estimate the numbers living at each separate year of age by graduation. The age statistics for the Cape of Good Hope and the Australasian Colonies—Queensland excepted—are, however, published, as returned, at each year of life. The results indicate the prevalence of errors due to wilful mis-statement and to the tendency, already spoken of, to return the age as an exact multiple of ten. For example, the numbers returned in the Cape of Good Hope at ages 30, 40, 50 and 60 were 78,184, 56,708, 37,453 and 25,759 respectively, the numbers living at those ages as calculated by actuarial investigation being 36,708, 27,136, 15,502 and 12,123, or less than half of the several numbers erroneously returned. Ages as returned in single years.

VII.—CONDITION AS TO MARRIAGE.

The condition as to Marriage of the population is a subject of inquiry undertaken by nearly all the Colonial Census authorities; but, owing to the diverse conditions prevailing in the several countries, it is necessarily treated of with varying amounts of detail.

Considering first the conjugal condition simply, the following Table shows the proportions of unmarried, married, and widowed, in the United Kingdom and in some of our principal Colonies and Dependencies:— Proportions of unmarried, married, and widowed.

—	Proportion per 1,000 living.			—	Proportion per 1,000 living.
	Unmarried.	Married.	Widowed.		Unmarried.	Married.	Widowed.

Grenada	735	226	39	New Zealand	657	306	37
St. Lucia	746	215	39

From this Table it appears that the highest proportions of married persons are found in the Indian Empire, Natal, Cyprus, and Canada, and the lowest proportions in Mauritius, Trinidad, St. Lucia, and Grenada.

Observations on Civil Condition. In India.

In discussing the civil condition of the population in India, it is stated in the Report on the Indian Census that "the most noticeable fact brought out by the statistics is the universality of marriage," and this is attributed mainly to religious influences. "In the Indian Empire, as a whole, amongst people of all religions taken together, to every 1,000 husbands there are only 1,011 wives, so that, even if no husbands have more than two wives, only 11 per 1,000 indulge in a second helpmate." The great difference between East and West in the civil conditions of the populations is shown by the following Tabular Statement :—

—	Proportion per 1000 of each Sex.
	MALES.
	Unmarried.		Married.		Widowed.
	Under 15 years.	Over 15 years.	Under 15 years.	Over 15 years.	Under 15 years.	Over 15 years.
Indian Empire	367	125	23	431	1	53
United Kingdom	334	289	—	342	—	35
	FEMALES.
Indian Empire	316	28	62	414	3	177
United Kingdom	313	283	—	328	—	76

The Indian Census Report also states "that of all the peculiar usages which are associated with marriage in India none has impressed itself so distinctly on the Census statistics as the custom which prohibits the second marriage of a widow, and the convention enjoining the marriage of a daughter before she attains physical maturity."

In Natal.

With regard to Natal, which shows the second highest proportion of the married, it appears that the excess is mainly due to the presence of a considerable number of Indians; for, while among the Europeans or Whites in the Colony only 33·0 per cent. were returned as married, the rate for Indians and Asiatics, who slightly outnumbered the Whites, amounted to 44·2 per cent.

In Mauritius and in Trinidad.

It is curious that, while on the one hand the immigration of Indians into Natal has modified the statistics of civil condition in that Colony in the manner shown above, the same cause has a directly opposite effect in Mauritius and Trinidad. In the former island the Indian population numbered 259,086 out of a total of 370,526, and in the latter 86,383 out of 255,148. The Census Report for Mauritius explains that those Indians who on arrival simply make a declaration that they are married obtain a marriage certificate, the marriage consequently being recognised as legal, but that any Indians who contract marriage in Mauritius according to their own rites are not recognised as being legally married, and therefore appear in the Census Returns as unmarried. The instructions issued in Trinidad were that "Immigrants married according to the Christian rite, or who hold registration certificates of their native marriages, . . . are to be entered on the schedules as 'married,' all others 'unmarried.'" The returns, however, are held to be very unsatisfactory.

In the West Indies.

The explanation of the cause of the unpopularity of the married state in Grenada and St. Lucia is no doubt that in these Islands a large proportion of the population live in a state that is closely akin to wedlock, for, save as regards the religious ceremony, it fulfils all the conditions of the wedded state. It is possible that the same might be said of some other of the West Indian Islands, for in Jamaica, where the want of a Census in 1901 prevents the quotation of recent statistics, the proportion of married, both in 1881 and 1891, was only 18·5 per cent. of the population.

Civil Condition affected by Sex and Age constitution.

The question of civil condition is usually dealt with in combination with that of sex and age constitution of the population, for it is obvious that these factors are to a great extent mutually dependent. Thus a population containing a proportionally large number of children, or one in which either the male or the female sex is much in excess, must ordinarily show a larger proportion of unmarried than would be the case if the adults were relatively more numerous or the sexes more evenly balanced.

In comparing the figures for several places, these disturbing factors may be eliminated by calculating the proportions among males and females at ages 15 years and upwards. The following Table shows the figures for some of the principal colonies, &c.

* Sixteen years and upwards.

But although the exclusion of persons under 15 years of age has removed the effect of the varying proportions of children in the population the figures are still to some extent affected by the varying proportions of older and younger persons amongst those over 15 years of age. There are also several other factors that affect the civil condition of a population, among these may be mentioned the age at which maturity is attained, religious beliefs, social customs, and climatic and economic conditions.

VIII.—OCCUPATIONS.

Completely satisfactory returns not obtainable.

It is generally admitted by the Census Authorities in all Countries that the tabulation and compilation of Occupation statistics is a work of very great difficulty; it was stated by Dr. Ogle in the English Census Report for 1881 that the "most laborious, the most costly, and after all perhaps the least satisfactory part of the Census is that which is concerned with the Occupations of the people," and it may be said that these remarks have greater force to-day than they had 25 years ago; as the number of distinct manufactures and industries in all civilised Countries has greatly increased, and moreover most of these manufactures and industries are continually tending towards greater subdivision. It is very doubtful whether completely satisfactory returns of Occupations can at any time be obtained except by means of specially qualified Enumerators who would personally ascertain the precise information required and enter the particulars on the Census Schedule.

Want of comparability between figures for the several Colonies, &c.

For the successful study of Occupational Statistics relating to the widely separated units of our Empire, the first essential is the construction of a uniform Table, in which the meaning of terms used to designate individual industries shall be everywhere the same. But a careful examination of the Tables published by the several Colonial authorities shows the great difficulty of this task. For not only is there a lack of uniformity in the methods of tabulation locally employed, but the economic, social, and other conditions of the several populations differ so widely as to render accurate comparison possible only as regards a very limited number of occupations. Moreover, the omission from the Table of important Colonies such as the Dominion of Canada and the Transvaal, which, at the time of going to press, had not furnished Occupational Statistics, must also be considered as detracting from the value of the comparative statements in this section of the Report.

Construction of Summary Table.

It seems desirable, however, to give an approximate comparison, and we have accordingly adopted the method of grouping the occupations, as published in the Colonial Reports, under the Orders and principal Sub-Orders of the English classification. The result appears in Table 6 of the Summary Tables, to which foot-notes are added indicating, among other things, some of the more important individual occupations as returned in the Colonial Reports and some of the cases where the differences between the English and Colonial classifications are irreconcileable.

"Occupied" and "Unoccupied."

Owing to the inherent defects of this Table it is preferable to consider its general features rather than to make a close examination of the figures in detail. Even the broad division of a population into two classes, viz.: "Occupied and Unoccupied" presents considerable difficulty. For instance, the question of including in the "Occupied" class female relatives assisting in the work of the house or of the farm, has not received uniform treatment, nor has the question of assigning students to the professions for which they are being prepared or of grouping them together under one heading. Further, it is doubtful whether persons who have retired from an occupation (including those who are assumed to be permanently incapacitated) have been uniformly dealt with. In the United Kingdom they are, speaking generally, shown as "Unoccupied," but it appears probable that in some few cases they may have been referred to their former occupations.

Proportions of "Occupied" to Total Population.

Taking the figures in the several Reports as they stand, the proportions of "Occupied males" in the principal Colonies range from 44·2 per cent. of the total male population in Cyprus, 59·3 in South Australia, and 60·2 in Ceylon, to 72·7 in the Orange River Colony, 73·2 in Natal (excluding Native Races), 75·2 in Western Australia, and 83·7 in the Federated Malay States; and the proportions of "Occupied females" from 9·1 per cent. in Mauritius, 11·5 in Cyprus, 15·1 in Natal (excluding Native races), and 16·0 in Queensland, to 33·4 in the Federated Malay States, 49·7 in the Cape of Good Hope, 50·7 in Trinidad, and 66·9 in the Orange River Colony.* With regard to Cyprus, it may be remarked that a large class of "Landowners" has been included among the "Unoccupied"; if the "Landowners" be added to the "Occupied Class," the proportions of "Occupied males and females" would be raised from 44·2 and 11·5 per cent. respectively, to 67·0 and 18·1 per cent. The proportion of "Occupied females" in Mauritius is certainly understated, many of the Indian women who work as field labourers not having been returned as "Occupied."

Occupational Groups.

We now proceed to examine the main results of the tabulation of persons by their Occupations, and in so doing we shall not attempt to deal with all the Occupational headings, but shall select such headings and groups of headings as may seem suitable for comparative purposes.

Differing Standards of comparison.

While in the English Census Report the standard of comparison is based on the total male and female populations respectively, aged 10 years and upwards, it is necessary in these remarks to base the standard of comparison on the total male and female populations respectively at all ages, because the Occupations in a number of the Colonial Returns are not tabulated in combination with ages.

General or Local Government.

The first Order in the English classification is that of persons engaged in National and Local Government; it comprises all persons engaged in General and in Municipal Services. It appears that, in the principal parts of the Empire for which Occupational Statistics are available, the proportions of the male population engaged in these services were in many cases almost identical; for instance, in all but minor Colonies the proportions of the male population so engaged ranged from 0·9 to 1·4 per cent. The figures were as follows:—In Ceylon and in the Cape of Good Hope, 1·0 per cent., in England and Wales and in the Orange River Colony, 1·1 per cent., in Cyprus, India, Federated Malay States, Natal, Mauritius, and the Australian Commonwealth, 1·2 per cent., and in Ireland, Gibraltar, and Malta, 1·4 per cent.

* The relatively large proportion of "Occupied females" in the Orange River Colony consists mainly of those returned under the headings "Domestic Service" and "Agriculture."

Professional occupations.

Under the heading of Professional Occupations, are classed members of the Clerical, Legal, Medical, Teaching, and Engineering professions, together with a group of those engaged in Literary and Scientific pursuits, persons connected with Art and Music, and those ministering to Amusements. This class was relatively least numerous in the Federated Malay States, Sierra Leone, Cape of Good Hope, Orange River Colony, and Mauritius, where it amounted to less than 1 per cent. of the male population; while in England and Wales, the Australian Commonwealth, New Zealand, Malta, and Natal the proportions ranged from 2·0 to 3·5 per cent.

The relative distribution in the several populations, of members of the Clerical, Legal, Medical and Teaching professions is shown in the following statement:—

—	Proportion per cent. of Male and Female Population engaged in
	Clerical Profession.*	Legal Profession.*	Medical Profession.*		Teaching Profession.*
	Males.	Males.	Males.	Females.	Males.	Females.
England and Wales	0·3	0·4	0·2	0·4	0·4	1·0

New Zealand	0·3	0·3	0·3	0·5	0·5	1·0

* These professional occupations include, wherever possible, the subordinate services.

In the Indian Empire 1,720,079 males were enumerated in the Professional Class. Of this number 971,869 males, or over 50 per cent., were returned as following the Clerical Profession, in which were included 453,382 returned as Priests, Ministers, &c., and 278,752 "Religious Mendicants, Inmates of Monasteries, Convents, &c."; there were also 97,686 females of the last-mentioned class. Compared with 1891, the number of these Religious Mendicants, &c., shows a decrease, and on this point it is remarked in the Indian Census Report that the decline is due to "The comparatively heavy mortality among beggars during the famine years, but it is also partly attributable to the spread of education, and the consequently weaker hold which the so-called ascetics have on the imagination of the people; it is much less easy than it was formerly for the members of the various begging fraternities to unloose the purse-strings of the villagers." There were 143,133 males enumerated in the various branches of the Medical Profession, and of these no fewer than 99,882, or over two-thirds, were returned as "Practitioners without diploma."

Domestic Offices or Services.

The Domestic Class which comprises all those engaged in Indoor and Outdoor Domestic Service is numerically important. In most European Countries the females out-number the males in this class, but in many parts of the British Empire the reverse is the case; for example the number of male Domestics considerably exceeded the number of female Domestics in India, Ceylon, the Malay States, Cyprus, Mauritius and Natal. The parts of the Empire containing the highest proportions of males and females engaged in Domestic Service were as follows :—

—	Proportion per cent. of Male and Female Population.
	Males.	Females.
England and Wales	1·9	10·6
Ireland	1·2	8·4
Scotland	1·2	7·6
Cape of Good Hope	1·2	7·0
Australian Commonwealth	1·2	6·3
New Zealand	0·5	5·6
Mauritius	4·2	2·3
Ceylon	2·6	2·0
Cyprus	2·2	1·7
Indian Empire	1·6	0·9
Federated Malay States	1·5	0·8

It should be noted that these returns are not strictly comparable ; for instance in the Australian Commonwealth, Domestic Servants in Hotels, Inns, Eating and Boarding Houses were classed with persons providing Board and Lodging instead of with the Domestic Group.

Conveyance of Men, Goods, and Messages.

Turning next to the persons engaged in the conveyance of Men, Goods, and Messages, we find that the proportions of males so employed to the total male population were as follows :—Malta 8·1 per cent., England and Wales 7·9 per cent., Scotland 7·1 per cent., Australian Commonwealth 6·0 per cent., New Zealand 5·2 per cent., Orange River Colony 3·1 per cent., Ireland and the Federated Malay States 2·9 per cent., Cape of Good Hope 2·8 per cent., Ceylon 1·6 per cent., and the Indian Empire 1·0 per cent.

The five divisions in this class are those engaged—(1) on Railways, (2) on Roads, (3) on Seas, Rivers, and Canals, (4) in Docks and Harbours, (5) in Storage, Porterage and Messages.

The proportions of the male population so returned were as follows :—

—	Proportion per cent. of Male Population engaged

According to the Board of Trade Statistical Abstract there were in the United Kingdom 22,600 miles of Railway Line open for traffic at the end of the year 1904. In British India there were 27,600 miles, and in the Cape of Good Hope 3,000 miles open for traffic in 1904, and in the Australian Commonwealth 14,500 miles open in 1903.

Exclusive of coasting trade, there were, during 1904, entered and cleared, either in ballast or with cargoes, over 108 million tons of shipping at the various Ports in the United Kingdom; excluding the Inter-State traffic and coasting trade, six and a half million tons of shipping were entered and cleared in the Australian Commonwealth. Excluding River and Lake traffic, nearly 18 million tons were dealt with in the North American Colonies in the year ended June 1904, and there were entered or cleared in the Straits Settlements (excluding Inter-Settlement Trade) and Hong Kong 17 million and 19 million tons respectively.

Agriculture.

Judged by the numbers engaged therein, the Agricultural Industry is one of the most important in the British Empire. The proportions of the male and female population classified under this broad heading, in the principal parts of the Empire for which returns are available, were as follows:—

—	Proportion per cent. of Male and Female population engaged in Agriculture.
	Males.	Females.

* As explained in the sixth paragraph on page xxx., it has been necessary, for the purposes of this Report, to base the proportions of persons engaged in occupations on the total population at all ages; if the proportions are based, however, on the population aged ten years and upwards, as in the English Census Report, the ratios of the male population at these ages engaged in Agriculture in the three divisions of the United Kingdom are as follows:—England and Wales, 9·5 per cent.; Scotland, 10·7 per cent.; and Ireland, 44·3 per cent.

The vastness of this industry is illustrated by the fact that in India there were returned under the heading "Pasture and Agriculture" no fewer than 90 million persons or nearly one-third of the total population; while the dependents of these people numbered over 104 millions. In British India alone, according to the Statistical Abstract, the area devoted to the cultivation of food grains amounted in the year 1902–3 to no less than 183 million acres, of which 71½ million acres were under rice cultivation. Among persons engaged in the cultivation of special products may be mentioned 82,745 cultivators of Coffee, 643,504 of Tea, and 111,022 of Betel Vine and Areca Nut. In Ceylon 1,063,625 persons, or nearly one-third of the Island community, were returned as engaged in Agriculture, of whom 391,945 were cultivators of Rice, 312,651 of Tea and 73,203 of Cocoanut.

In the Federated Malay States 167,351 persons, or nearly one-quarter of the total population, were engaged in Agriculture, and of these 69,168 were cultivators of Rice whilst 45,364 were returned as "Gardeners."

In the Australian Commonwealth, 403,534 persons, or about one-ninth of the total population, were returned under the heading "Agriculture." Of this number, 112,370 persons, or, over 25 per cent., were engaged in Pastoral Pursuits, and 276,179 in the cultivation of land, of which latter 8,916 were returned as Fruit Growers and Orchardists, 2,974 as "Wine Growers, Vignerons," and 12,749 as Sugar Planters, of whom over 80 per cent. were returned in Queensland.

Mines and Quarries.

The next Order to be dealt with includes persons working in and about, or dealing in the products of, Mines and Quarries. The proportions of the male populations so engaged were as follows :—

—	Proportion per cent. of Total Male Population.
Federated Malay States	32·4
Scotland	6·0
Australian Commonwealth	6·0
England and Wales	5·1
New Zealand	4·4
Orange River Colony	2·9
Cape of Good Hope	2·1
Ceylon	1·0
Ireland	0·3
Indian Empire	0·1

In the Federated Malay States upwards of 157,000 males, mostly Chinese, or about 30 per cent. of the male population, were engaged in Tin Mining. In the Australian Commonwealth over 67,000 males were returned as connected with the Gold Mines, of whom nearly 18,000 were employed in Western Australia. In the Cape of Good Hope 18,874 males were returned as Diamond Diggers. In Ceylon 15,055 males and 2,139 females were described as Plumbago (Graphite) Miners and 378 males as Gem Diggers. In the Indian Empire 62,485 persons (34,523 males and 27,962 females) were employed in Coal Mining and 5,116 males in Gold Mining.

From the Statistical Abstract it appears that the quantity of Tin and Tin Ore exported from the Malay States in 1904 was about 51,000 tons; in the United Kingdom only about 4,000 tons of the metal are produced annually. Among the principal centres of Gold Mining the total production of this metal, during 1904, amounted to 268,000 ozs. in Southern Rhodesia, 520,000 ozs. in New Zealand, 603,000 in British India (1903), 912,000 in Canada (1903), 3,774,000 in the Transvaal, and 4,567,000 ozs. gross in the Australian Commonwealth (1903); to this last amount Western Australia contributed 2,436,000 ozs. As regards Coal, about 232 million tons were produced in the United Kingdom, about 8 million tons in British India, 7 million tons in Canada and in the Australian Commonwealth, and about 2 millions in the Transvaal.

Metals, Machines, Implements, and Conveyances.

The male workers and dealers in Metals, Machines, Implements, and Conveyances (comprising those engaged in the manufacture of Iron and Steel and other Metals, those engaged in Engineering and Machine making, the makers of Tools, and those engaged in the Miscellaneous Metal Trades, and in the construction of Ships and Vehicles), were in the following proportions to the total male population :—

—	Proportion per cent. of Total Male Population.
Scotland	9·3
England and Wales	7·5
Australian Commonwealth	3·4
New Zealand	3·4
Ireland	1·9
Mauritius...	1·5
Trinidad	1·5
Cape of Good Hope	0·8
Indian Empire	0·6

Ceylon	0·4
Orange River Colony	0·4

In the Indian Empire 476,033 males were engaged in Iron and Steel Manufactures; 107,686 in the construction of Engines and Machines and the manufacture of Tools and Implements; 90,815 in founding and working Brass, Copper, and Bell Metal; and 21,585 in the manufacture of and working in Tin, Zinc, Quicksilver, and Lead.

In Ceylon 5,148 males were employed in Iron and Steel manufactures, 1,245 were engaged in the construction of Engines and Machines and the manufacture of Tools and Implements, 773 were returned as working in Brass, Copper, and Bell Metal, and 420 as working in Tin, Zinc, Quicksilver, and Lead.

In the Australian Commonwealth 19,154 males were returned under the heading "Blacksmith, Striker, Farrier, Whitesmith," 7,459 males were classed to the various branches of Iron and Steel manufacture, and 12,726 were engaged in the construction of Engines, Machines, Boilers, and Agricultural Implements.

In New Zealand 4,253 males were returned as Blacksmiths, &c., 2,889 were engaged in the construction of Engines, Machines, Boilers, and Agricultural Implements, and 1,602 in Iron and Steel manufactures.

In the Cape of Good Hope 3,672 males were returned as "Blacksmiths, Whitesmiths, and Boiler-makers," 1,477 as Wagon Makers, 1,269 were engaged in the construction of Engines and Machines, and 208 in working and dealing in Iron.

Building and Works of Construction.

We have now to consider persons engaged in Building and Works of Construction. In this Order are included the Builders, Masons, Carpenters, Painters, &c., and also the Contractors for Docks, Railways and other Works of Construction, and the Navvies and Road Labourers.

The proportions of the male population thus employed were 6·4 per cent. in England and Wales, 6·3 in Scotland, 5·2 in New Zealand, 4·8 in the Cape of Good Hope, 4·6 in the Australian Commonwealth, 4·2 in Mauritius, 2·8 in Ireland, 2·6 in the Orange River Colony, 2·3 in Ceylon, 1·6 per cent. in the Federated Malay States, and 1·0 in the Indian Empire. In the last-mentioned Dependency, House-building and Works of Construction gave employment to 1,572,360 males and 299,211 females, including 756,539 males returned as "Carpenters and Joiners," and 298,054 males as "Masons and Builders"; of those engaged in "Other Works of Construction and on Roads" 131,019 males and 102,085 females were returned as "Tank Diggers and Excavators," and 243,531 males and 85,126 females as "Road, Canal, and Railway Labourers."

In Ceylon 31,164 males were engaged in House-building, this number including 21,902 Carpenters, and 9,069 Masons. There were 11,726 males and 3,188 females returned as employed on "Other Works of Construction and on Roads," of which number 10,465 males and 3,078 females were returned as "Road Coolies."

Wood, Furniture, Fittings, and Decorations.

Allied to the persons engaged in House-building, &c., are the workers and dealers in Wood (excluding Carpenters), Furniture, Fittings and Decorations. They include the Cabinet Makers, the French Polishers and the Sawyers, Wood Turners and Coopers, &c. The proportions of males so employed to the total male population, in the principal Colonies, &c., were as follows:—In New Zealand 2·0 per cent., in the Australian Commonwealth 1·9 per cent., in England and Wales and in Scotland 1·5 per cent., in the Federated Malay States 0·8 per cent., in Ceylon and in Trinidad 0·6 per cent., in Ireland 0·5 per cent., in the Indian Empire 0·4 per cent., and in the Cape of Good Hope and in Mauritius 0·2 per cent.

In the Indian Empire the number of persons enumerated under this Order amounted to 924,188 (528,781 males, and 395,407 females), 724,985, or over 60 per cent. of these, being employed as Basket Makers, and others working and dealing in Canework, Matting and Leaves; 103,828 males returned their occupations as Wood Cutters and Sawyers, and 51,288 males and 19,633 females were engaged in dealing in Timber and Bamboos.

Bricks, Cement, Pottery, and Glass.

The proportions of the male population returned as working and dealing in Bricks, Cement, Pottery and Glass in the principal parts of the Empire were as follows:—England and Wales 0·9 per cent., Indian Empire 0·6 per cent., Scotland and the Australian Commonwealth 0·4 per cent., Ceylon, Cape of Good Hope and Orange River Colony 0·3 per cent., New Zealand 0·2 per cent., and Ireland and the Federated Malay States 0·1 per cent.

In the Indian Empire 826,629 males and 387,730 females were returned under this Order; of these, 602,892 males and 281,126 females were employed as "Potters and Pot and Pipe-bowl Makers," and 68,922 males and 19,369 females as Brick and Tile Makers. There were 7,157 males enumerated as working or dealing in Bricks, Cement, Pottery and Glass in the Australian Commonwealth, of whom 4,607 were described as Brick and Tile Makers, 1,037 as engaged in Earthenware and 809 in Glass Manufacture.

Drugs, Chemicals, Explosives, &c.

We next turn to the persons engaged in the manufacture of, or dealing in, Colouring matters; Drugs, Chemicals, &c. Explosives, Matches; Oil, Grease, Soap, Resin, &c. In the principal Colonies, &c., the proportions of males so employed were highest in England and Wales, Scotland, and the Indian Empire, and lowest in Ireland, the Cape of Good Hope and the Orange River Colony.

In the Indian Empire 834,023 males and 434,200 females were returned under this Order, and of these 118,661 males and 39,731 females were engaged in the Manufacture of, and dealing in, Drugs, Dyes, Pigments, and Soap; 561,302 males and 325,263 females were engaged in the preparation of Vegetable Oils for food; and 14,789 males and 1,164 females as preparers or sellers of Opium, Bhang, Ghanja, &c.

Skins, Leather, Hair and Feathers.

The workers and dealers in Skins, Leather, Hair, and Feathers include the Furriers, Tanners, Curriers and Leather Goods Makers, and all those persons working or dealing in Hair and Bristles. The proportions of the male population so employed were highest in New Zealand, the Australian Commonwealth, and England and Wales, and lowest in the Cape of Good Hope, the Orange River Colony, the Federated Malay States, and Ceylon.

Paper, Prints, Books and Stationery

Our next group comprises the workers and dealers in Paper, Prints, Books, and Stationery. The proportion of males so employed was highest in England and Wales, where it was 1·2 per cent., whilst in the Federated Malay States and in the Indian Empire it was less than 0·1 per cent. The proportions per cent. in other parts of the Empire were in Scotland 1·1, in the Australian Commonwealth and New Zealand 0·9, in Ireland 0·3, in the Cape of Good Hope 0·2, and in Ceylon, the Orange River Colony, and Mauritius 0·1 per cent.

Textile Manufactures.

Under the heading "Textile Fabrics" are included all persons employed in the manufacture of, or dealing in, Textile Fabrics, and those engaged in Dyeing, Bleaching, Printing, Calendering, and Finishing them.

The proportions per cent. of the male and female population so employed in the principal parts of the Empire were as follows:—

—	Proportion per cent. of
	Male Population.	Female Population.
England and Wales	3·1	4·0
Scotland	3·0	5·7
Ireland	1·7	3·2
Malta	0·2	8·1
Cyprus	0·5	6·1
Indian Empire	2·1	1·4
Ceylon	0·5	2·5
Cape of Good Hope	0·1	0·1
Australian Commonwealth	1·0	0·4
New Zealand	1·3	0·6

In the Indian Empire 5,048,356 persons (3,082,963 males, and 1,965,393 females) were engaged in the various branches of the Textile Industry; and of these 3,741,045, or nearly 75 per cent., were employed in the manufacture of Cotton and Flax; not more than 227,992 persons, or a little over 6 per cent., of those employed in Cotton manufacture were returned as working in Cotton Mills, but on the other hand no fewer than 2,669,028 persons, or over 70 per cent., were returned as "Weaving Cotton by Hand." The manufacture of Hemp, Jute, and other fibrous materials forms an important branch of the Textile Industry in India, finding employment for 339,882 persons (156,541 males and 183,341 females). Over 233,000 persons, or two-thirds of the persons working in Hemp, &c., were returned as Rope, Sacking and Net makers. Among other Textile manufactures, 170,856 persons were employed in Wool and Worsted manufacture, 145,494 in Silk manufacture, and 80,041 in the manufacture of mixed or unspecified materials. Textile Dyeing and Bleaching found employment for 150,461 persons, while 420,577 persons were returned as dealers in Textile Fabrics.

In Ceylon the most important division of the Textile Industry is the manufacture of Hemp and other Fibrous materials. Of the 50,376 persons (8,823 males and 41,553 females) returned as working and dealing in Textile Fabrics, 32,148 (1,976 males and 30,172 females), or about 64 per cent., were returned as working in Hemp, &c. Cotton manufacture found employment for 1,066 males and 3,840 females; 69 males and 5,952 females were returned as Lace makers; and 5,412 males and 1,578 females, as dealers in Textile Fabrics.

Wool and Worsted manufacture is the principal Textile Industry in the Cape of Good Hope. Of the 2,622 persons (1,767 males and 855 females) engaged in working and dealing in Textiles, 1,844 (1,089 males and 755 females), or over 66 per cent., were employed in Wool and Worsted manufacture; and 682 (606 males and 76 females) as dealers in Textile Fabrics.

In the Australian Commonwealth and in New Zealand the majority of persons returned under the Textile Order were classified as dealers in Textile Fabrics (Drapers, &c.). In the Australian Commonwealth 27,759 persons were returned as working and dealing in Textiles, and of these 24,606, or nearly 89 per cent., were returned as "Dealers." In New Zealand also, of the 7,895 persons returned as working and dealing in Textiles, 5,083, or nearly two-thirds, were dealers in Textiles.

The Statistical Abstract shows that the amount of raw cotton imported into the United Kingdom during 1904 was 1,955 millions of lbs., of which 1,858 millions were from Foreign Countries, and 97 millions from British Possessions; the principal Foreign sources of supply being the United States, which exported 1,491 millions of lbs. to the United Kingdom; Egypt 325 millions, and Brazil 21 millions; the British Possessions in the East Indies exported 95 millions, and about 826,000 lbs. and 800,000 lbs. respectively were exported from the British West Indies (including Guiana), and from British West Africa.

The United Kingdom in 1904 imported 567 millions of lbs. of wool, and of this quantity 220½ millions were from Australia, 134 millions from New Zealand, and 65 millions from British South Africa.

Closely allied to the workers and dealers in Textile Fabrics are the persons working or dealing in Articles of Dress. This group includes the Tailors, Boot and Shoe makers, Dressmakers, Hairdressers and Wig makers, &c. The proportions of males and females so employed, in the principal Colonies, &c., were as follows:— Dress.

In the Indian Empire 2,521,987 persons (1,976,924 males and 545,063 females) were included under this Order. Of this number, 992,352 persons (829,579 males and 162,773 females), or about 40 per cent., were returned as Barbers; 865,453 persons (707,514 males and 157,939 females) were engaged in Boot, Shoe, and Sandal making; and 559,309 persons (369,851 males and 189,458 females) were employed as "Tailors, Milliners, Dressmakers and Darners."

Of the 10,158 persons (6,404 males and 3,754 females) in Ceylon, engaged in working and dealing in Dress, 6,125 (2,564 males and 3,561 females), or about 60 per cent., were returned as "Tailors, Milliners, Dressmakers and Darners"; 2,763 (2,732 males and 31 females) were employed as Barbers; and 905 (895 males and 10 females) as "Shoe and Sandal makers."

In the Federated Malay States 5,318 persons (4,117 males and 1,201 females) were returned under this Order, and of this number 2,748 (1,557 males and 1,191 females), or over 50 per cent., were returned as "Tailors, Dressmakers and Seamstresses"; 1,989 males were returned as "Barbers"; and 567 males and 10 females as "Boot and Shoe makers."

In the Cape of Good Hope 11,150 persons (5,618 males and 5,532 females) were engaged in working or dealing in Dress, and of this number 4,825 (33 males and 4,792 females), or over 43 per cent., were returned as Milliners and Dressmakers or their Assistants; 2,521 persons were returned as Tailors; and 718 (710 males and 8 females) as Hairdressers and Barbers.

In the Australian Commonwealth, of the 99,874 persons (33,489 males and 66,385 females) included under this Order, 65,335 (8,876 males and 56,459 females), or about 65 per cent., were returned as "Clothing manufacturers, Tailors, and Dressmakers"; 19,117 (16,432 males and 2,685 females) were employed as "Boot, Shoe makers"; and 4,775 (4,634 males and 141 females) as Hairdressers.

In New Zealand 20,939 persons (7,484 males and 13,455 females) were enumerated as working and dealing in Dress, and of these, 13,062 (2,348 males and 10,714 females), or about 62 per cent., were returned as "Clothing manufacturers, Tailors, and Dressmakers"; 4,501 (3,756 males and 745 females) were employed in Boot and Shoe making; and 725 (707 males and 18 females) as Hairdressers and Barbers.

od, bacco, ink, and dging.

We have now to deal with persons engaged in the manufacture of, or dealing in, Food, Tobacco, and Drink, or returned as providing Board and Lodging. The proportions per cent. of the male and female populations so employed in the principal divisions of the Empire, were as follows:

—	Proportion per cent. of
	Male Population.	Female Population.

In the Indian Empire 6,861,947 persons (3,841,454 males and 3,020,493 females) were returned under this Order, and of this number 6,206,636 (3,337,864 males and 2,868,772 females), or about 90 per cent., were returned as working or dealing in Food, 163,609 persons were engaged in the manufacture of, or dealing in, Tobacco, 259,066 (233,901 males and 25,165 females) were employed in the manufacture of Spirituous Drinks, and 232,636 persons (159,601 males and 73,035 females) in dealing in Spirituous Drinks or in providing Board and Lodging. Of the persons returned as working and dealing in Food, 3,657,318, or over 50 per cent., were engaged in the manufacture of, or dealing in, Vegetable Food. Of the 259,066 persons employed in the manufacture of Spirituous Drinks, 230,207 were returned as "Toddy Drawers."

There were 75,641 persons (43,734 males and 31,907 females) returned in Ceylon, under this Order. Of these, 57,181 (26,080 males and 31,101 females), or over two-thirds, were returned as working and dealing in Food; 6,213 (5,863 males and 350 females) as working or dealing in Tobacco; 8,760 (8,730 males and 30 females) as employed in the manufacture of Spirituous Drinks; and 3,487 (3,061 males and 426 females) were returned as dealing in Spirituous Drinks, or in providing Board and Lodging.

In the Australian Commonwealth, 162,102 persons (111,293 males and 50,809 females) were returned as dealing or working in Food, Tobacco, Drink, &c. Of this number, 90,993 (81,480 males and 9,513 females), or about 56 per cent., were returned as working and dealing in Food. There were 3,353 persons (2,452 males and 901 females) engaged in the manufacture of, or dealing in, Tobacco, and 63,988 (23,609 males and 40,379 females) employed in dealing in Spirituous Drinks, or in providing Board and Lodging.

In New Zealand, of the 27,881 persons (19,918 males and 7,963 females) returned under this Order, 16,302 (15,099 males and 1,203 females), or about 55 per cent., were engaged in working and dealing in Food, and 10,651 (3,924 males and 6,727 females) were returned as dealing in Spirituous Drinks, or in providing Board and Lodging.

The foregoing remarks indicate briefly some of the main facts to be gathered from a general survey of the Occupational Statistics as presented in the Census Returns. Want of uniformity in the several classifications and limitations of space preclude a more extended treatment of the subject, but those who desire to further study the occupations of the people in the various parts of the British Empire are referred to Table 6 in the Summary and to the detailed Occupational Table for each Colony.

IX.—BIRTHPLACES.

Table 7 of the Summary shows the Birthplaces of the populations of the United Kingdom and of the principal Colonies, Dependencies, and Protectorates. This information is valuable in that it affords a rough means of measuring both the amount of emigration from the Mother Country and Foreign Countries into the several Colonies, and the amount of inter-migration in those Colonies.

Composition by Birthpla

Of a total of upwards of 354 millions of persons whose Birthplaces were returned, more than 348 millions were born in those parts of the Empire in which they were enumerated; the remaining six millions being either immigrants from other parts of the British Empire or from Foreign Countries. The origin of the migratory six millions may be thus expressed:—

(1)	Natives of the United Kingdom	2,786,650
(2)	„ „ Other British Countries	1,467,275
(3)	„ „ European Foreign Countries	594,249
(4)	„ „ Other Foreign Countries	1,153,594

The following Table shows the Birthplaces of the populations of the principal parts of the Empire for which the statistics are available :—

* Including Foreign Countries not stated.
† Natives of the United Kingdom are not distinguished from those of Other Parts of the British Empire.

Dealing first with the persons who were enumerated where they were born, it will be observed that the populations containing the highest and lowest proportions respectively of Native-born were as follows :—

Highest Proportions of Native-Born.	Per cent. of Total Population.	Lowest Proportions of Native-Born.	Per cent. of Total Population.
Malta	96·4	Hong Kong	1·7
Ireland	97·0	Western Australia	30·6
Bahama Islands	97·1	Gibraltar	53·8
Newfoundland and Labrador ...	97·8	Queensland	59·2
Cyprus	98·9	Trinidad and Tobago	63·3
Indian Empire	99·8	Orange River Colony	65·2

The places with the highest proportions of Natives are generally those that have not proved attractive to immigrants, and it is noticeable in these cases that, of the comparatively small numbers arriving from other parts, the majority come from neighbouring, rather than from remote Countries. Thus in Malta, of the 6,748 persons returned as born elsewhere, 3,593 were from Italy and from the African Countries bordering the Mediterranean; in Ireland the 131,828 persons born elsewhere included 107,078 of English or Scotch birth; and in the Indian Empire as many as 445,949 were returned as born in Countries adjacent to India, or in the French and Portuguese Settlements in India, leaving only 254,926 that were born in more remote Countries.

Colonies, &c., with largest numbers of immigrants.

Turning to those places where the native population forms a relatively small proportion of the total, it will be seen that Hong Kong occupies a unique position. Excluding the "New Territory" on the Mainland, and the Naval and Military establishments, no fewer than 230,038 persons, or 96·8 per cent. of the entire population whose birthplaces are recorded, were returned as Chinese. The Hong Kong Report, however, in classifying the Chinese population, leaves it doubtful whether the several provinces of China referred to as the "native places" of the Chinese population were in all cases the actual birthplaces.

Immigrants in Western Australia.

Western Australia is the most conspicuous example of a Colony where immigration has been active during the last intercensal period, for it is stated in the Report for that Colony that in 1901 nearly 90 per cent. of the immigrant population had been resident there for less than 11 years. The distribution, by birthplace, of the total population shows that the 69·4 per cent. born outside Western Australia included 40·8 per cent. that were Natives of other parts of Australasia and 22·0 per cent. that were Natives of the United Kingdom; the Australian-born immigrants included 39,491 persons from Victoria, 16,327 from South Australia, and 14,124 from New South Wales, the remaining Australasian Colonies furnishing only 7,197. European Foreign Countries were returned as the birthplace of 6,047 persons or 3·2 per cent.; of these, 1,522 were Natives of Germany, 1,494 of Sweden, Norway and Denmark, and 1,354 of Italy; Asia supplied 1,475 Chinese, 867 Japanese, and 769 Natives of India.

In Queensland.

Queensland ranks next to Western Australia as regards the high proportion born outside the Colony, but the places of origin of its immigrant population are somewhat different; only 7·8 per cent. of the total population came from other parts of Australia, against 40·8 in Western Australia. Natives of the United Kingdom amounted to 126,159 or 24·1 per cent.; European Foreigners to 21,518, or 4·1 per cent., including 13,166 Germans and 5,302 Natives of Sweden, Norway and Denmark; Pacific Islanders numbered 8,811, or 1·7 per cent.; and Chinese 8,472, or 1·6 per cent.

In Trinidad.

In Trinidad and Tobago the high proportion of persons born outside the Colony is mainly due to the immigration of Indian Coolies, no fewer than 42,373 persons being returned as natives of other Islands of the West Indies, and 47,677 as natives of the Indian Empire.

Natives of the United Kingdom.

The distribution of the population born outside the limits of the Colonies in which they were enumerated presents some interesting features. First in numerical importance are the natives of the United Kingdom. Disregarding a few places such as Gibraltar, where the composition of the population is unduly affected by large numbers of soldiers or sailors, the following Colonies are among those containing the highest and lowest proportions of immigrants from the United Kingdom.

Highest Proportions of Natives of the United Kingdom.	Per cent. of Total Population.	Lowest Proportions of Natives of the United Kingdom.	Per cent. of Total Population.

Among the six States of the Australian Commonwealth the proportions ranged from 11·5 per cent. in Tasmania and 14·6 per cent. in South Australia, to 22·0 per cent. in Western Australia and 24·1 per cent. in Queensland.

Canada.

In the Dominion of Canada the lowest proportions of Natives of the United Kingdom were 2·4 per cent. in Nova Scotia and 2·6 per cent. in Quebec, and the highest 13·0 per cent. in Manitoba and 17·1 per cent. in British Columbia.

Distributing the Natives of the three divisions of the United Kingdom that were enumerated in the principal Colonies it is found that, of the natives of England and Wales, 77,411 were enumerated in the Indian Empire; 103,032 in the Cape of Good Hope, Natal and the Orange River Colony; 203,803 in the Dominion of Canada; and 506,665 in Australia and New Zealand. Of the natives of Ireland, 9,682 were resident in the Indian Empire; 12,537 in the three above-mentioned South African Colonies; 101,629 in the Dominion of Canada; and 227,609 in the Australasian Colonies; while the natives of Scotland numbered 9,325 in India, 27,508 in South Africa (Cape, Natal and Orange River Colony), 83,631 in the Dominion of Canada, and 149,611 in Australia and New Zealand. It will be noticed that, while persons of Irish birth in Canada and Australia considerably outnumber the natives of Scotland, the latter are more than twice as numerous as the former in South Africa.

The Birthplace statistics show that, in the last intercensal period, a considerable decline took place in the number of natives of the United Kingdom enumerated in the several Colonies. This decline is indirectly confirmed by the emigration Statistics furnished by the Board of Trade; the average annual figures for the decennia 1881–1890 and 1891–1900 being as follows:—

Average Annual Number of Emigrants from the United Kingdom.

——	Total.	English.	Scotch.	Irish.	Foreigners.	Not stated.
1881–90	355,566	154,897	27,510	73,448	95,334	4,377
1891–1900 ...	266,183	109,589	18,598	46,092	87,884	4,020

It will be seen from the above statement that, during the second decennium, there was a considerable decrease in the average number of Emigrants from each Division of the United Kingdom.

igrants.

Having dealt with the natives of the United Kingdom enumerated in other parts of the Empire, we come next to the migrants between one Colony and another. Among the Colonies with the highest and lowest proportions of these were the following:—

Highest Proportions of Inter-migrants.	Per cent. of Total Population.	Lowest Proportions of Inter-migrants.	Per cent. of Total Population.
Ceylon	12·3	Indian Empire	0·01
St. Lucia	13·5	Cyprus	0·03
Mauritius	16·0	Hong Kong	0·16
Orange River Colony	28·1	Malta	0·16
Trinidad	33·0	Dominion of Canada	0·30
Western Australia	41·7	Newfoundland and Labrador ...	0·96

The actual number of immigrants from other parts of the Empire is greatest in Ceylon, where no fewer than 440,520 natives of other British Possessions were enumerated. Of these, 440,105 were natives of India, chiefly of the Southern parts, many of whom find employment in the tea plantations of the Island. The second place, in point of numbers, is occupied by the Mother Country, upwards of 160,000 natives of the various Colonies having been enumerated in the United Kingdom. In New South Wales, of the 118,520 natives of other British Colonies, 113,000 were natives of other Australasian States; and in the Orange River Colony nearly all of the 108,679 natives of other British Colonies had migrated from other parts of British South Africa, though it is not possible to distinguish between the White and the Native races. Similarly, in Western Australia the great majority had, as already stated, been drawn from the other States of the Australian Commonwealth.

Migration of Indian to Mauritius, Trinidad, and St. Lucia

In the other Colonies severally, viz.: St. Lucia, Mauritius, and Trinidad, shown above as containing comparatively large numbers of British-born immigrants other than Natives of the United Kingdom, the high proportions are due, in the case of Mauritius and Trinidad, to the organised immigration of Indian coolies, who furnish most of the labour for the sugar-growing industry of these Islands. Thus in the Colony of Mauritius, out of nearly 60,000 natives of other parts of the Empire, all but a few hundreds were Indian immigrants; in Trinidad and Tobago the number was 47,677 out of 90,202, the remainder, with the exception of 152 persons, coming from other British West Indian Islands. It may be observed that in Mauritius, where the immigration of Indian coolies has been going on for many years, the Indian population, including those of Indian parentage born in Mauritius, numbered 259,086, or more than four times the number of Indian Natives enumerated in the Island; whilst in Trinidad there were 38,714 persons born of Indian parents in addition to the 47,677 natives of India. The Indian element in St. Lucia has arisen from the former introduction of coolies to work on the sugar estates. It is now some years since such introduction ceased; but the construction of military works in the Island by the Imperial Government has been responsible for a considerable influx of labour from neighbouring islands.

To Natal

In Natal, although the proportion of natives from other parts of the Empire is less than in the instances just mentioned, being 8·3 per cent. of the total population, yet the number of Indians enumerated there is remarkably large. No fewer than 65,720 persons were returned as natives of India, and altogether 100,727 were stated to be of Indian nationality.

Number of Indian migrants inconsiderable in proportion to total Indian population

It might perhaps be inferred from the above numbers of Indian immigrants in some of the Colonies that the Indian native is of a migratory nature. Such is not the case, however, for, although nearly 700,000 persons born in India were enumerated in other parts of the British Empire where statistics of birth-places were obtained, and a further 115,000 appear as "Tamils and other Natives of India" in the returns of "Nationality" relating to the Straits Settlements and the Federated Malay States, nevertheless this total bears but a small proportion to the total population of India, and, moreover, includes an appreciable number of persons of European descent. Thus it is expressly stated in the Indian Census Report that the natives of the country are an intensely home-loving people, and therefore, it is very seldom that the Hindu permanently severs his connection with his birthplace, and although he may go abroad in search of a better livelihood than he can obtain in his own country, his exile as a rule is only temporary. The Mohammedan is found to be almost equally reluctant to go very far from his ancestral home.

Migration of natives of Ceylon

The emigration of natives of Ceylon is confined mainly to India where over 5,000 of them were enumerated; to England and Wales with 2,514—many of them probably of European parentage; and to Australasia with 719. In addition to these, the returns from the Straits Settlements and the Federated Malay States show some 1,200 persons described either as Sinhalese or as Jaffna Tamils.

Of South Africa.

Taking the South African Colonies as a whole, it appears that, although there was a considerable amount of migration among the individual Colonies in the group, the number of emigrants furnished to other parts of the Empire was not large. In England and Wales there were 11,717 natives of the South African Colonies, in Australia 1,441, in New Zealand 474, in the Indian Empire 329, in the Dominion of Canada 128, and in Mauritius 108; in all other parts their number was quite insignificant.

other rican osses- ons.

The Protectorates in East and Central Africa were represented in the Indian Empire by 5,320 persons, mostly Somalis, and in Natal by 947. The West African Colonies contributed 989 natives to the population of England and Wales, the next highest number being found in Ascension Island where there were 129 Kroomen, natives of Sierra Leone, in the service of the Admiralty.

British orth nerica.

The distribution, over other parts of the Empire, of natives of British North America, was confined mainly to England and Wales, where there were 18,829, to Australia with 3,183, to New Zealand with 1,544, and to the Cape, Natal, and Orange River Colonies with 897. Natives of the British West Indies, Honduras, and Guiana numbered 10,198 in England and Wales, and 1,363 in Australia and New Zealand.

Aus- lia.

The number of persons of Australian birth enumerated in England and Wales was 21,221 ; in the Cape of Good Hope there were 3,216, in Natal 2,925, and in the Dominion of Canada 991. It is New Zealand, however, which attracts the greatest number of Australians, as many as 25,769 natives of the Commonwealth being enumerated in that Colony : the numbers furnished by the six States respectively were :—Victoria 12,583, New South Wales 6,430, Tasmania 3,720, South Australia 1,575, Queensland 1,271, and Western Australia 190. This gain to the New Zealand population is, however, balanced almost exactly by the number of natives of that Colony enumerated in Australia. These amounted to 25,788, of whom 10,589 were living in New South Wales, 9,020 in Victoria, 2,704 in Western Australia, 1,571 in Queensland, 1,193 in Tasmania, and 711 in South Australia.

stralian er- gration.

Within the Commonwealth there was a considerable amount of inter-migration, as may be seen from the subjoined statement :—

Natives of Australia enumerated in a State of the Commonwealth other than that in which they were born.

Where born.	Where enumerated.						Total.
	New South Wales.	Victoria.	Queens-land.	South Australia.	Western Australia.	Tasmania.

Total	101,510	64,209	39,023	16,833	74,311	11,295	307,181

Comparison of the figures in the last column with those in the line at the foot of the statement shows to what extent each State has gained or lost in population by movement within the Commonwealth. Thus Victoria was the greatest loser, with an adverse balance of 59,846, for whilst 64,209 persons born elsewhere were enumerated in Victoria, 124,055 of its natives were enumerated in other States, and South Australia the next greatest with a loss of 46,753 ; on the other hand New South Wales gained 33,906, and Western Australia 70,705.

ives of eign ntries.

Having reviewed the Birthplace statistics of the population born within the British Empire and enumerated therein, there remains to be dealt with that section of the population enumerated within the Empire, but born in Foreign Countries.

Among the principal Colonies containing the highest and lowest proportions of Foreigners may be cited :—

Highest Proportions of Foreigners.	Per cent. of Total Population.	Lowest Proportions of Foreigners.	Per cent. of Total Population.
Dominion of Canada	5·20	Ceylon	0·03
Australian Commonwealth ...	3·54	Indian Empire	0·20
Malta	2·47	Newfoundland and Labrador ...	0·37
New Zealand	2·42	Natal	0·61
Orange River Colony	1·94	Cyprus	0·97
Cape of Good Hope	1·62

The 1,747,843 Foreigners enumerated within those parts of the Empire in which Birthplaces were returned, have for convenience been divided into two Classes—Natives of European Countries, and Natives of Non-European Countries, numbering respectively 594,249 and 1,153,594.

Dealing first with the Natives of Non-European Countries, an examination of Table 7 in the Summary shows that nearly 600,000 were enumerated in the Indian Empire, more than 231,000 in Hong Kong, nearly 152,000 in the Dominion of Canada, and about 80,000 in the United Kingdom. Non-Europeans.

Natives of China numbered over 300,000, and of these 230,038 were enumerated in Hong Kong, 46,831 in the Indian Empire, 29,907 in the Australian Commonwealth, and 17,043 in the Dominion of Canada. It may be mentioned that full statistics of birthplaces are not published for the Straits Settlements, for the Federated Malay States, or for others of our Eastern possessions which give employment to large numbers of Chinese. Some of these States, however, publish particulars relating to nationality and in these Tables nearly 727,000 persons are stated to be of Chinese origin. Making a rough approximation, the number of Chinese living within the British Empire may be estimated at nearly 1¼ millions. Chinese.

Natives of the United States numbered over 190,000, of whom 127,899 were enumerated in the Dominion of Canada, 41,255 in England and Wales, and 7,448 in the Australian Commonwealth. Natives of United States.

It will be of interest to quote the Birthplace statistics for the last three Censuses, on the one hand of Natives of the United States enumerated in Canada, and on the other hand, of Natives of Canada enumerated in the United States ; the figures are as follows :—

Census Year.	Natives of United States Enumerated in Canada.	Census Year.	Natives of Canada Enumerated in United States.
1881	77,753	1880	717,157
1891	80,915	1890	980,938
1901	127,899	1900	1,181,255

It will be observed that the balance of migration between the two Countries, as judged by Birthplace statistics, was at the last Census in favour of the United States to the extent of over a million persons.

Of the 600,000 Natives of Non-European Countries resident in the Indian Empire, 375,918 were natives of the adjacent Asiatic States or Colonies, including 243,037 from Nepal and 112,502 from Afghanistan ; and in addition to these there were 70,031 Natives of the French and Portuguese Settlements in India. Non-European Foreigners in India.

Distribution of Natives of European Countries.

The distribution of the 594,249 Natives of European Foreign Countries who were enumerated in those parts of the Empire furnishing statistics of Birthplaces presents some interesting features; the following statement shows the principal parts of the Empire in which these European Foreigners were located, together with their Countries of Birth.

It will be noticed that, of the total number of Europeans (including British Subjects and Naturalised British Subjects born in European Foreign Countries) nearly one-half were enumerated in England and Wales; their proportion to the total population was, however, quite nominal, being only 0·87 per cent. In Scotland the proportion to the total population was only 0·46 per cent. and in Ireland it was as low as 0·14 per cent. The Islands in the British Seas contained a relatively high proportion, due principally to persons of French birth enumerated in the Channel Islands.

In the Dominion of Canada 127,128 European Foreigners were enumerated, or 2·37 per cent. of the total population; in the Australian Commonwealth there were 75,910, or 1·98 per cent.; in New Zealand 13,726 or 1·68 per cent.; and in the Cape of Good Hope, Natal and the Orange River Colony collectively 38,966, or less than 1 per cent. of the total population of those South African Colonies.

Increase in intercensal period of Natives of European Foreign Countries.

Owing to the absence of complete returns it is difficult to make an accurate comparison between the numbers of Natives of European Foreign Countries enumerated within the British Empire at the Censuses of 1891 and 1901. From the limited data available, however, it may be inferred that the numbers increased considerably in the decennium. In England and Wales the number rose from 194,225 to 283,785, about half of the total increase being due to increased immigration of Natives of Russia; in Scotland the number in 1901 was almost double that in 1891; and in Ireland, although the general population had declined, the Natives of European Countries had increased from 4,923 to 6,048. The relatively insignificant proportion of European Foreigners in the Indian Empire showed an increase, the numbers being 6,917 and 8,409 in 1891 and 1901 respectively. In the Cape of Good Hope the numbers increased from 11,150 in 1891 to 30,160 in 1904; the Natives of Russia numbered 1,094 in 1891, and 12,296 in 1904; Natives of Italy increased from 290 to 2,018, and there were also large increases among the Natives of Scandinavia, the Netherlands, Germany, Austria, and Greece. In Natal the number of European Foreigners increased from 2,269 to 5,732 in the intercensal period, the difference being mainly due to an influx of Natives of Scandinavia, and, in a smaller degree, of those of Germany and Russia. In the Dominion of Canada the Natives of Russia rose from 9,917 to 31,231, and of Scandinavia from 7,827 to 18,388; there were also considerable increases in the numbers of Natives of France and Italy, but those of the German Empire actually declined to a slight extent. The Commonwealth of Australia is exceptional in showing an actual decrease in the number of European Foreigners in the decennium; there were slight increases among the Natives of Russia, Austria, Spain, and Italy, but the Natives of all the other principal Foreign European Countries showed decreases, the diminution in the nnmber of Germans amounting to nearly 7,000. In New Zealand there was a slight increase on the total, but no striking difference on the figures for any individual country, except Austria, the Natives of which country increased from 564 in 1891 to 1,874 in 1901.

Nationalities or Races.

Somewhat closely allied to the subject of Birthplace statistics is that of the distribution of Nationalities or Races. The scientific description of Races can hardly be brought within the scope of a Census Report, more especially as there appears to be no standard classification of the varieties of the human species, but some of the information under this heading in the Colonial Census Reports possesses considerable interest.

Broad distinction into white and coloured races.

Broadly speaking, the 398 million persons residing within the British Empire may be divided into two classes—"Whites," numbering approximately 54 millions or 13·6 per cent. of the total population, and "Coloured" population numbering about 344 millions.

Of the 344 millions of Coloured population, over 295 millions were either Natives of India or descendants of Indian Emigrants, 3½ millions were Natives of Ceylon, and a further 2½ millions were Natives of other East Indian possessions. Natives of the West African Colonies numbered nearly 29 millions; the South African Colonies contained over 5½ millions of Coloured persons, other African possessions over 7 millions, and our West Indian possessions, about 1½ millions. The Coloured population enumerated in the Dominion of Canada numbered over 167,000, in the Australian Commonwealth 120,000, and in Polynesia and British New Guinea about 500,000.

Racial divisions of population.

The following excerpts, respecting race distribution, taken from the Colonial Census Reports and Tables are well worthy of attention.

In India.

As regards India, the conclusions arrived at in the Article dealing with the subject of Caste, Tribe, and Race, are as follows:—

"There are seven main physical types in India, of which the Dravidian alone is, or may be, indigenous. The Indo-Aryan, the Mongoloid, and the Turko-Iranian types are in the main of foreign origin. The Aryo-Dravidian, the Mongolo-Dravidian, and the Scytho-Dravidian are composite types formed by crossing with the Dravidians.

"The dominant influence in the formation of these types was the physical seclusion of India, involving the consequence that the various invaders brought few women with them and took the women of the country to wife.

"To this rule the first wave of Indo-Aryans formed the sole exception for the reasons given in paragraphs 801 and 802.*

"The social grouping of the Indian people comprises both tribes and castes. We may distinguish three types of tribe, and seven types of caste.

"Both tribes and castes are sub-divided into endogamous, exogamous, and hypergamous groups.

"Of the exogamous groups a large number are totemistic. It is suggested that both totemism and exogamy are traceable to the general law of natural selection.

* These reasons may be summarised briefly as follows:—At the time of this early settlement by Indo-Aryans circumstances permitted of a gradual and peaceable movement by tribes and families; in later times, the change of climate, through which the level alluvial tracts on the North-West frontier were deprived of rainfall and lapsed into desert, resulted in the physical seclusion of India, thus involving the consequence mentioned in the preceding paragraph.

"Castes can only be classified on the basis of social precedence. No scheme of classification can be framed for the whole of India.

"The Indian theory of caste was probably derived from Persia. It has no foundation in fact, but is universally accepted in India.

"The origin of caste is from the nature of the case an insoluble problem. We can only frame more or less plausible conjectures, derived from the analogy of observed facts. The particular conjecture now put forward is based first upon the correspondence that can be traced between certain caste gradations and the variations of physical type; secondly, on the development of mixed races from stocks of different colour; and thirdly, on the influence of fiction." *

In Ceylon.

The Ceylon Report states, that of the 3,565,954 persons (comprising the Civil Population) returned at the Census of 1901, 2,330,807, or 65·3 per cent., were Sinhalese; 951,740, or 26·7 per cent., were Tamils; 228,034, or 6·4 per cent., were Moors; 23,482, or 0·7 per cent., were Burghers and Eurasians; 11,902, or 0·3 per cent., were Malays; 6,300, or 0·2 per cent., were Europeans; 3,971, or 0·1 per cent., were Veddas; and 9,718, or 0·3 per cent., were of other races. According to its strict interpretation, the term "Moor," which means an inhabitant of Morocco, is misleading when applied to the people of Ceylon who go by that name. The Portuguese gave to the Ceylon Mohammedan the name of his co-religionist of Morocco, and it is still used to designate all Mohammedans (other than Malays) born in Ceylon or in Southern India, and speaking Tamil as their mother tongue.

In the Federated Malay States.

In the Federated Malay States the proportions of different Races in every 10,000 of the population in 1891 and 1901 were:—

—	1891.	1901.
Europeans and Americans	17	21
Eurasians	14	23
Malays and other Natives of the Archipelago ...	5,546	4,623
Chinese	3,915	4,434
Tamils and other Natives of India...	483	861
Other Races	25	38

During the decennium the Native Races increased by 34·5 per cent., while there was an increase of 83·4 per cent. among Chinese, and of 189·5 per cent. among Tamils, &c.

In the Straits Settlements.

In the Straits Settlements the proportions of different Races in every 10,000 of the population in 1891 and in 1901 were:—

—	1891.	1901.
Europeans and Americans	129	88
Eurasians	138	134
Chinese	4,450	4,927
Malays and Natives of the Archipelago	4,159	3,758
Tamils and other Natives of India	1,052	999
Other Races	72	94

* The fiction referred to is "that people who speak a different language, dwell in a different district, worship different gods, eat different food, observe different social customs, follow a different profession, or practice the same profession in a slightly different way must be so unmistakably aliens by blood that intermarriage with them is a thing not to be thought of."

The great bulk of the White population of the Cape of Good Hope were born in the Colony. The main European stocks are the Dutch, dating from the settlement of original colonists in the 17th Century; the French, dating back to the arrival of the Huguenot refugees—variously estimated at from 180 to 300 persons—in 1688–9; the British, which received a distinct impetus on the landing of nearly 5,000 State-aided immigrants in Algoa Bay in 1820–1; and the German, which originated in the settlement of the Anglo-German Legion after the Crimean War, and of a detachment of Agricultural immigrants from Northern Germany. Inter-marriage is rapidly obliterating the line of distinction between all the Nationalities represented among the Colonial born. One of the most noticeable features in respect to Nationalities is the increase of the number of persons of Russian extraction, who now constitute the strongest of all the Foreign elements represented at the Cape. In the Cape of Good Hope.

The Bantu race is divided into the Fingo Tribe, and the Kafir and Bechuana Tribes. The total number of the Kafir and Bechuana Tribes was 1,424,787 persons, and of these Tribes the Amaxosa and the Tembus were the largest, numbering 324,225 and 266,284 persons respectively.

According to the Canadian Census Tables, of the 5,371,315 persons enumerated in the Dominion, 1,260,899, or 23·5 per cent., were of English origin; 988,721, or 18·4 per cent., of Irish; and 800,154, or 14·9 per cent., of Scotch descent. Of those of English origin, 701,413 were resident in Ontario, 159,753 in Nova Scotia, and 114,710 in Quebec. In Canada.

The majority of persons of Irish descent were enumerated in Ontario, no fewer than 624,332 residing there, while 114,842 were enumerated in Quebec and 83,384 in New Brunswick. The number of persons of Scotch descent was greatest in Ontario, 399,530 being there enumerated, while next in importance came Nova Scotia with 143,382, and Quebec with 60,068.

Of other persons of European origin, 1,649,371, or 30·7 per cent., of the total population of the Dominion were returned as of French descent, the majority of these, viz.: 1,322,115 being resident in Quebec.

The number of persons returned as of German origin was 310,501, and next came the Dutch, Scandinavians, and Russians, numbering 33,845, 31,042, and 28,621 respectively.

In addition, there were enumerated 34,473 Half-breeds, 93,459 Indians, and 22,050 Chinese and Japanese. Of the Chinese and Japanese, 19,482, or over 80 per cent., were enumerated in British Columbia.

In the Australian Commonwealth the aboriginal population numbered about 65,000 persons (including an estimate of 20,000 nomadic aborigines in Queensland). South Australia contained the largest number of aborigines,—27,123, or over 40 per cent., being there enumerated; and next in order came Queensland, Western Australia, New South Wales and Victoria with 26,670, 6,212, 4,287 and 652 respectively. Of the New Zealand population, 43,143 (23,112 males and 20,031 females) were Maoris, equal to 5·3 per cent., of the total population. This total of 43,143 shows an increase on the Maori population enumerated in 1896 of 3,289 persons, or 8·3 per cent. In Australasia.

X.—RELIGIONS.

It has often been suggested that a Religious Census should be taken in England. But the proposal to add a column to the Census Schedule, in which the people should state their Religion, has met with many objections, mainly on the ground that no one has the right to inquire as to a man's religious opinions, and that the objections from conscientious or other scruples to furnish information under this head would render the returns comparatively valueless.

That no insuperable difficulty is experienced in obtaining information as to the Religious beliefs of the people in other parts of the Empire is shown by the fact that in 1901 a Religious Census was taken, with apparently a fair amount of success, in Ireland and in no fewer than 28 of our Colonies or Dependencies. In dealing with these Returns some difficulty has been experienced in classifying for comparative purposes the adherents No insuperable difficulty in obtaining returns.

to the very numerous Religious Denominations or Sects. In order to afford a comprehensive view, the numbers have been grouped under two main categories—Christian religions, comprising 15 subordinate headings, and non-Christian religions, comprising 12 subordinate headings, an arrangement that is set forth in Table 8 of the Summary. It should be clearly understood that the numbers therein tabulated refer to about 319 millions or about four-fifths of the total population of the Empire, no returns of religious beliefs being available for the remaining 79 millions of population. Of this latter number, 37 millions were inhabitants of Great Britain, of whom the majority were presumably Christians: over 38 millions were in African Colonies and Protectorates (including the Transvaal, the Protectorates in East and Central Africa, and Nigeria), these being mostly Mohammedans or Pagans; and the remaining 4 millions were enumerated in various minor Colonies.

Distribution in three groups of religions.

Of the 319 millions, whose religious beliefs are set forth in Table 8 of the Summary, more than 20 millions were returned as professing one or another form of the Christian religion and over 295 millions were returned under non-Christian religions, while the remainder, amounting to fewer than four millions, were returned and classed as either having no religion, or as indefinitely expressed.

Christians.

Dealing first with the 20 millions returned as professing the Christian religion, the numbers were distributed among the several Denominations as follows :—

—	Persons.	—	Persons.
Church of England Episcopalian	4,045,527	Salvation Army	79,583
Presbyterian	2,068,921	Protestant (not otherwise described).	141,047
Methodist	2,179,627	Christian (not otherwise described)	158,461
Independent, Congregationalist...	280,294	Minor Christian Sects	771,693
Baptist	710,878
Unitarian	14,189	Catholic (including Roman Catholic, Greek Church, and various Catholic Churches)	9,396,305
Society of Friends, Quaker ...	9,502
Lutheran	442,036

If to these numbers we add the population of Great Britain (37 millions) and a further half million as representing the Christians in Colonies where no religious Census was taken, we arrive at a total of 57½ millions, which number may be taken as a rough estimate of the number of persons in the British Empire professing one form or other of the Christian religion.

Non-Christians.

The population returned under the category of non-Christian Religions numbered over 295 millions, who were distributed as follows :—

—	Persons.	—	Persons.
Jewish	78,214	Buddhist*	11,643,432
Hindu	208,342,276	Confucian*	14,180
Mohammedan	62,884,811	Primitive Animistic, Pagan ...	8,910,826
Zoroastrian (Parsi)	94,632	Agnostic	5,521
Sikh	2,195,444	Deist	376
Jain	1,334,148	Other non-Christian Religions ...	4,678

* In South Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand Buddhists and Confucians are returned together and amount to 3,190, 353, and 2,432 respectively; in the above Table they are all included under the heading "Confucian."

In addition to these, there were approximately 42 millions of persons belonging to one or other of the above non-Christian denominations, but living in Colonies where no Religious Census was taken; making a very rough estimate it may be assumed that three-fourths of this number were Mohammedans, the greater part of the remaining fourth being distributed among the other non-Christian sects.

Assuming these estimates to be fair approximations, we may broadly speaking class about 395 millions of the population of the British Empire under the following five headings :— Estimated totals in five groups of religions.

—	Millions.
Hindus	208
Mohammedans	94
Christians	58
Buddhists	12
Primitive Animistics, Pagans, and other non-Christian Religions.	23
Total	395

It will be observed that in most of the American Colonies, nearly the whole of the population was returned as Christian. In Newfoundland and Labrador the entire population was so returned, in the Dominion of Canada 98 per cent. of the population were described as Christian, and in the other American Colonies except Trinidad and Tobago the proportions of the population said to profess the Christian religion ranged from 96·2 per cent. in Bermuda to 99·6 in Grenada. In Trinidad and Tobago, the proportion was 70·6 per cent., 25·2 per cent. of the population being Hindu and 3·8 per cent. Mohammedan. In Australasia the proportions of the population returned as Christian varied from 88·3 per cent. in South Australia and 90·3 per cent. in Queensland to 96·6 in New South Wales, 96·7 in Victoria and 97·2 in Tasmania, the variations mainly depending on the differing proportions of Aborigines in the several States. In Malta and Gozo the proportion was 88·8 per cent. and in Cyprus it was 78·3 per cent., 21·6 per cent. of the population being described as Mohammedan. In the African Colonies, the highest proportion returned as Christian was in the Seychelles Islands (97·1 per cent.) and the lowest in Lagos Colony (25·4 per cent.), some of the other proportions being 26·3 in Gambia Colony, 32·8 in Mauritius, 49·6 in Natal (excluding natives), and 56·2 in Sierra Leone. In India and Ceylon the proportions were very low, viz., less than one per cent., but nevertheless in India the number of persons returned as Christian was nearly 3,000,000 and in Ceylon it was over 350,000. Proportions in the several Colonies, &c.—Of Christians.

Persons described as of the Jewish religion numbered nearly 20,000 in the Cape of Good Hope, 18,000 in India, 16,000 in the Dominion of Canada, and nearly 17,000 in Australasia. Numbers of Jews.

The Hindu religion was represented by 207,000,000 persons in India, 828,000 in Ceylon, 206,000 in Mauritius, &c., 87,200 in Natal, and 69,000 in Trinidad and Tobago. Of the entire population of India, 70·4 per cent. were of the Hindu religion, 21·2 per cent. Mohammedan, 3·2 Buddhist, 3·0 Primitive Animistic and Pagan, and, as already stated, less than one per cent. Christian. Hindus.

Persons returned as of the Mohammedan religion numbered in round figures 62,400,000 in India, 248,000 in Ceylon, 51,000 in Cyprus, 41,000 in Mauritius, &c., 23,000 in the Cape of Good Hope, 22,000 in Lagos Colony, 10,500 in Trinidad and Tobago, and over 10,000 in Natal. Mohammedans.

Of persons professing Buddhism there were 9½millions in India, 2,140,000 in Ceylon (see Note e, Table 8, p. 65), 10,400 in the Dominion of Canada, 3,300 in Mauritius and its Dependencies, and 7,500 in Australasia. Buddhists.

The followers of Confucius were represented in the Dominion of Canada and in the Australasian Colonies by 5,000 and 11,200 persons respectively. The latter number does not, however, include 8,000 persons of Chinese origin in Queensland who were classified as "Mohammedan or Pagan." Most of the Chinese in Hong Kong, the Straits Settlements, the Federated Malay States, and other East Indian Colonies, would doubtless also have come under this heading had a Census of Religions been taken in those Colonies. Confucians.

Pagans.

Of the persons returned as Primitive Animistic or as Pagan, the great majority were enumerated in India; nearly 8¾ millions, equal to nearly 3 per cent., of the total population being returned under this heading in that Dependency. Smaller numbers were also returned in Orange River Colony (127,500), in Sierra Leone Colony (24,100), in Queensland (19,100—returned as Mohammedan and Pagan), in the Dominion of Canada (15,100), in Lagos Colony (9,100), in Gambia Colony (2,200), and in Ceylon (2,000).

Of the 1,066,000 persons returned under the heading of "No Religion," over one million were enumerated in the Cape of Good Hope, it being stated in the Census Report for that Colony that these were chiefly Heathen.

Indefinite Religions.

Under the heading Indefinite and Unspecified Religions, about two millions were classed; of this number nearly 1½ millions were in the Gold Coast Colony; as it is stated that the mass of the people in that Colony still observe Fetish worship it is probable that the greater part of this number should be classed as Pagan.

As an example of some of the difficulties experienced in classifying a people by Religions, the following list of Sects, or terms by which some persons designate their Religious belief is appended :—

Alexandrian.
Altruist.
Ambrosian.
Antinomian.
Assembly.
Astronomical.
Believer.
Brotherhood.
Calathumpian.
Canopist.
Cosmosophist.
Eclectic.
Ethicist.
Faithist.
Gentile.
Hoke.
Hylozoist.

Monotheist.
Morrisonian.
Mosaic.
Pelagian.
Re-Incarnationist.
Separatist.
Sung Quong.
Thesian.
Tipon.
Universalist.
Utopian.

In addition to the above forms of belief, many of which cannot be classified with certainty, either as Christian or as non-Christian, there are shown in the various Reports many Sects, which, although they may be assumed to denote some form of Christianity, are not easily assignable to any of the well-known denominations. The following may be quoted as examples of these minor Christian Sects :—

Apostolic.
Believer in Christ.
Children of God.
Christian Catholic.
Christian Freethinker.
Christian Israelite.
Christian Metaphysician.
Church of Christ.
Church of God.
Church of Zion.

XI.—EDUCATION.

Restricted character of the returns.

The information under this head obtained through the agency of a Census is, as a rule, of a restricted and simple character, all that is usually sought for being the number of persons who are either able, or unable, to read and write. Such particulars, even if strictly accurate, express but imperfectly the measure of the educational status of a country. Many people refuse to acknowledge their inability to read and write: for example, it is stated in the Census Report for the Bahama Islands that "a large percentage of those who claimed to be able to read and write, signed their names by making their mark." Owing to variations in the methods of compilation it is somewhat difficult to compare the figures for the several parts of the Empire for which returns are available. An examination of the several reports shows that, speaking generally, children under five years of age have been classed as unable to read and write.

The following statement shows the proportions per cent. of the total population returned as able to read and write, in Ireland and in the few Colonies for which statistics were obtained, arranged in order of relative degree of literacy :— Proportions of "Literate" in the several Colonies, &c.

—	Proportion per cent. able to read and write.	—	Proportion per cent. able to read and write.
Australian Commonwealth ...	78·7	Orange River Colony	32·6
New Zealand	77·5	British Honduras...	31·1
Ireland	71·5	Cape of Good Hope	25·8
Lagos Colony (English-speaking people only).	68·8	Ceylon	21·8
Turks and Caicos Islands ...	46·0	Malta	20·9
Natal (excluding Natives) ...	47·3	Indian Empire	5·3
Bahama Islands	37·2

In the six States of the Australian Commonwealth the proportions were 74·5 in Queensland, 74·6 in South Australia, 77·4 in Tasmania, 78·7 in New South Wales, 78·8 in Western Australia, and 81·9 in Victoria. In Australia.

In connection with these variations, it may be mentioned that, according to the official "Statistical Account of Australia and New Zealand, 1902-3," "in Victoria compulsory attendance at school has been rigorously insisted upon, while in Queensland the principle of compulsion has been allowed to remain almost in abeyance, and in the other States it has been enforced with varying degrees of strictness." The number of children of school age who were not under instruction either at home or at school has been estimated to range from 4·5 per cent. in Queensland, and 6·1 per cent. in Victoria, to 9·4 per cent. in Tasmania and 13·2 per cent. in South Australia.

A retrospect of the diffusion of Education in Australia and New Zealand shows, as might be expected, considerable progress. Thus, in the year 1861, of the total population aged five years and upwards, only 70 per cent. were returned as able to read and write; at each succeeding Census the proportion has increased, and in 1901 it reached 91 per cent.

A similar improvement is also apparent in the educational condition of Ireland; for, of the population aged five years and upwards, 79 per cent. were returned in 1901 as able to read and write, while at the six preceding Censuses the proportions had been 28, 33, 41, 49, 59, and 71 per cent. respectively. In Leinster the proportion in 1901 was 83 per cent., in Munster 81 per cent., in Ulster 79 per cent., and in Connaught 72 per cent.,—this relative order having been maintained since 1881, previous to which year the Ulster population was more proficient than that of Munster. In Irelan

The comparatively high proportion shown for Lagos Colony in the foregoing Table is due to the fact that it is calculated on the number of English-speaking persons, who numbered only 5,058 out of a total population of 41,847 in that part of the In Lagos

Colony which was included in the enumeration. This result shows very little advance in education during the intercensal period, and it is stated in the Lagos Census Return that the figures are very disappointing.

n the Vest ndies.

The West Indian populations classified by education form but a very small proportion of the whole; thus, out of a total of 1,614,406 in the British West Indies and Central America, these statistics were available for only 96,564 persons. In the Turks and Caicos Islands 2,459 persons out of 5,350 were returned as able to read and write; in the Bahama Islands 19,975 out of 53,735 were so returned, but the unreliable nature of this return has been alluded to already; and in British Honduras 11,668 persons out of a total of 37,479 signified their ability to write their own name and have been assumed, therefore, to be able to read and write.

n South frica.

The figures for the three South African Colonies furnishing returns are not, as they stand, strictly comparable, owing to the exclusion of the Natives from the returns for Natal, and to the great difference between the proportions of Natives in the total populations of the Cape of Good Hope and the Orange River Colony respectively. The percentages of persons able to read and write, among the European or White population of these Colonies, were as follows:—Natal, 83 per cent., Cape of Good Hope, 75 per cent., and Orange River Colony, 74 per cent. It is shown in the Census Report for the Cape "that the proportion of illiterates of All Races was nearly 2 per cent. greater in 1904 than in 1865, although it has been steadily decreasing for both the Europeans and the Coloured Races individually." This apparent contradiction is due "to the enormous disparity in numbers between the two Race Groups to-day as compared with 1865, owing to the successive annexations of territories containing only a very small proportion of Europeans." The proportion of Europeans or Whites returned as able to read and write has risen from 60·7 per cent. in 1865 to 75·0 per cent. in 1904. Some light on the comparative progress in education made since the Census of 1891 by the six principal Race-Groups is afforded by the following interesting statement taken from the Cape Census Report:—

Race-Group.	Increase per cent. of those able to Read and Write, 1891–1904.
European or White	6·18
Malay	8·80
Hottentot	3·11
Fingo	7·85
Kafir and Bechuana	2·29
Mixed and Other	8·03

n Malta.

The returns of education in Malta deal not only with the ability to read and write, but also with the numbers of persons possessing different degrees of proficiency in English and Italian. It appears that, of the population aged five years and upwards born in the Maltese Islands or of Maltese parentage, 20·9 per cent. were able to read and write, showing an increase of 3·4 per cent. over the number so returned in 1891. With regard to the English and Italian languages, the Maltese Report states that "if ability to speak, read, and write English or Italian is taken to represent the degree of culture distinguishing the educated classes from the mass of the people, it will be found that, out of the 158,767 Maltese aged five years and upwards, 18,372 could speak, read and write Italian, and 13,737 could speak, read and write English. Of these persons, 11,541 could speak, read, and write both languages, 2,196, English only, and 6,831, Italian only. There were, therefore, altogether 20,568 persons able to speak, read, or write English or Italian, or both languages, and this number, on the above assumption, may be taken to represent the educated classes of the population." Among the remainder, 22,208, or 16 per cent., possessed different degrees of literary knowledge.

The following statement shows the relative increase of proficiency in English and in Italian during the intercensal period :— Increased knowledg of Englisl and Italia in Malta.

Degree of Knowledge.	Increase or Decrease per cent., 1891–1901.
	English.	Italian.
No Knowledge	9·3	14·3
Speak only	10·5	−10·0
Read only	36·4	−15·2
Speak and Read only	11·1	−1·8
Read and Write	30·1 } 48·7	−5·8 } 13·6
Speak, Read and Write	54·0	20·9

NOTE.—The minus sign (−) signifies decrease.

Without regard to the various degrees of proficiency in these two languages, it may be stated briefly that, while the Maltese population aged five years and upwards increased by 12·8 per cent. during the intercensal period, the number of persons possessing some knowledge of English increased by 37·5 per cent., and those with no knowledge, by only 9·3 per cent. ; those possessing some knowledge of Italian rose by 7·5 per cent., and those having no knowledge, by 14·3 per cent. The Maltese Census Report also gives an analysis of the population aged five and under fifteen years, showing that over 50 per cent. of the children aged five and under ten years, and 70 per cent. of those aged ten and under fifteen years, were not attending schools.

In Ceylon the most noticeable feature of the educational figures is the very great disparity between the standard of literacy among males and among females, in contrast to the practical equality of the sexes in this respect in those places where such statistics relate principally to Europeans. Thus the proportion of males able to read and write was returned as 34·7 per cent., against 6·9 per cent. of females, the proportions for both sexes having shown substantial increases since 1881, and it is noteworthy that the advance is shared by people of all the principal races and religions. The proportions in 1901 for these various peoples were as follows :— Ceylon.

Races.	Proportion per cent. able to read and write.		Religions.	Proportion per cent. able to read and write.
	Males.	Females.		Males.	Females.
Europeans	89·9	85·2	Buddhists	34·9	5·2
Burghers and Eurasians ...	70·2	65·7
Sinhalese	36·9	7·5	Hindus	25·9	2·5
Tamils	28·2	4·1	Mohammedans	34·4	3·3
Moors	33·2	2·5
Malays	53·4	16·1	Christians	55·2	30·0
Veddas	3·6	0·2	Others	13·5	3·9
Others	44·5	16·4

The very low proportion of persons in the Indian Empire returned as able to read and write, although doubtless mainly due to a real lack of education, is also to a slight extent due to the somewhat higher standard that was required there as compared with India.

some other parts of the Empire. Thus persons were not included "whose caligraphic attainments extend only to the scrawling of their own name," but in at least one Colony the ability to write one's own name was the only test applied.

The disparity between the sexes, already noticed in Ceylon, is equally marked in India, the proportions per cent. returned as literate being 9·8 for males and 0·7 for females, "but it is possible that there has been some understatement in respect of the latter sex, as among some classes of the population there is a prejudice against admitting that women are thus qualified." It appears also, from the age-distribution of those returned as literate, that "in spite of the instructions, the general tendency of the enumerators was to omit . . . . . persons who were still under instruction, even though they had passed beyond the preliminary stage of their education." Among the larger British Provinces, Burma has by far the greatest proportion of literates, no less than 37·8 per cent. of the males, and 4·5 per cent. of the females, being able to read and write. "This Province enjoys an elaborate system of indigenous free education which is imparted by the Buddhist Monks attached to the Monasteries, while the instruction of females is not hampered by the prejudices in favour of their seclusion, which so greatly impede progress in other parts of India." Next in order after Burma comes Madras with 11·9 per cent. of the males and 0·9 per cent. of the females able to read and write; then follow Bombay, Bengal, Assam, the Punjab, the United Provinces, and the Central Provinces. The Native States as a whole had only 7·9 per cent. of male and 0·6 per cent. of female literates, but Cochin, Travancore and Baroda occupy a higher position than any British Province except Burma. The degree of literacy associated with the principal religions is shown in the following statement:—

Religion.	Proportion per cent. able to Read and Write.			Religion.	Proportion per cent. able to Read and Write.
	Persons.	Males.	Females.		Persons.	Males.	Females.
Parsi	64·9	75·6	53·8	Sikh	5·9	9·8	0·7
Jain...	25·2	47·0	1·8	Hindu	5·0	9·4	0·5
Buddhist	22.0	40·2	4·2	Mohammedan ...	3·3	6·0	0·3

As regards Christians, the figures result from a very high degree of literacy among the few Europeans and Eurasians, and from a much lower degree among the numerous Native converts, many of whom are recruited from among the most ignorant sections of the community, although among the Native Christians such statistics as are available show a larger proportion able to read and write than is generally the case in most of the Hindu castes. The Mohammedans also, like the Christians, include in their ranks a high proportion of converts from the lower grades of Hinduism.

An additional feature of the Indian statistics is a return of the number of persons "literate in English." Included in this category are 0·68 per cent. of the males, and 0·07 per cent. of the females; the rate for males averaged 0·74 per cent. in the British Provinces, and only 0·37 per cent. in the Native States. Nearly one-sixth of the 1,125,231 persons returned as "literate in English" were enumerated in the three Presidency Towns, the numbers being 87,370 in Calcutta, 54,058 in Bombay, and 43,705 in Madras.

XII.—INFIRMITIES.

Table 10 in the Summary shows the numbers returned as (1) Blind, (2) Deaf and Dumb, (3) Lunatic, (4) Imbecile and Feeble-minded, and (5) Leprous, in those parts of the Empire for which returns are available.

ifficulties obtaining precise turns.

Concerning these infirmities it should be pointed out that the machinery of an ordinary Census is not adapted to furnish accurately the required statistics. As stated in the English Census Reports, firstly there is the difficulty of deciding in the absence of a fixed standard what degree of impairment of sight, hearing, or mental capacity constitutes blindness, deafness or insanity; secondly there is the very general unwillingness of persons to admit as regards either themselves or their children the existence of any serious bodily or mental defect. Obviously these difficulties obtain, in greater or less degree, in the Colonies as well as in the Mother Country.

The following Table gives for certain parts of the Empire the proportions to total population of persons returned as suffering from the Physical infirmities named above:—

* It should be pointed out that comparisons relating to the proportions of persons suffering from physical infirmities in the several parts of the Empire cannot be considered altogether trustworthy owing to differences in Census definitions, and variations in the sex and age constitution of the respective populations.

The Blind

The proportions of the population suffering from these Infirmities vary greatly in different countries. With regard to the blind it will be seen that, taking the proportion in the United Kingdom as a standard, while there are some Colonies in which there are relatively to population fewer Blind persons than in the United Kingdom, there are twice as many in British Honduras and in Mauritius, between two and three times as many in Trinidad and Tobago and in Malta, three times as many in St. Lucia, the Bahama Islands and Gambia (Colony), and nine times as many in Cyprus. In Cyprus the excessive proportion may probably be due to misinterpretation of instructions by the enumerators, tending to the inclusion of many persons whose vision is defective.

In India there were at the last Census 12 blind males and 12 blind females in every 10,000 of each sex as compared with 8 males and 7 females in the United Kingdom. The Report states that "the number of Blind has decreased since 1891 in greater proportion than that of any other Infirmity. Although the relatively high mortality amongst blind persons in the famine years had some share in the diminution recorded, a considerable part of this diminution was due to the greater activity of the Medical Establishments: for the total number of successful operations for cataract in the main Provinces of India was 146,295 during the decennium 1891–1900, compared with 68,236 in the previous ten years.

In Ceylon there were 12 blind males and 9 blind females in every 10,000 of each sex; the reasons assigned in the Report for this infirmity are "the more glaring atmosphere, the dirty surroundings of the lower classes, the presence of flies, the neglect and improper treatment of small-pox, ophthalmic diseases, and leprous and syphilitic taint, and, among women, bending over smoky fires, and confinement to dark unwholesome rooms."

'he Deaf nd Dumb.

As regards the Deaf and Dumb, the variation is not so marked, and in 19 of the Colonies the proportion to population is either the same as, or lower than, that in the United Kingdom. In the Dominion of Canada, Grenada, British Honduras, and Gibraltar, however, the proportion is twice as high, in Cyprus it is nearly three times as high, and in Gambia (Colony) nearly four times as high as in the United Kingdom.

In the Indian Report it is stated that "the extent to which deaf-dumbness may be acquired after birth is uncertain." The figures for the United Kingdom show that, out of more than 20,000 persons returned as "Deaf and Dumb," fewer than half were returned as so afflicted from childhood, but the smallness of this proportion is certainly due to inaccuracies in the Returns.

Discussing the causes of deaf-mutism, the Indian Report connects it with cretinism which has been assigned, with apparent reason, to the injurious properties of the water of certain rivers especially those which flow from the Himalayas. It is noted that deaf-mutism has no special predilection for persons of any individual religion or caste. The Mohammedans, in spite of their consanguineous marriages, are not more prone to the affliction than are the Hindus who eschew such connections.

'he nsane.

Taking together the Lunatic and Imbecile or Feeble-minded, we find that in nearly all the Colonies the proportion is much below that in the United Kingdom. There the proportion is 43 per 10,000 population, and the proportions most nearly approaching this are 43 in Malta, 41 in Victoria, 36 in New Zealand, 32 in New South Wales, 31 in the Dominion of Canada, in the Bahama Islands, and in South Australia, 30 in the Bermudas and in Grenada, and 25 in Sierra Leone (Colony) and in Tasmania.*

In India the total number of the Insane was less by nearly 11 per cent. than it had been in 1891, when a decrease of more than 8 per cent. was registered as compared with 1881. The Report states that the conditions which may conceivably cause or predispose to insanity must fall under one or other of three heads, viz.—locality (including climate), social practices, physical ailments and race—and further, that the theory that consanguineous marriages have a tendency to produce mental unsoundness receives little support from the Census figures.

In Ceylon the number of persons of deranged intellect had fallen at each successive enumeration; the Report warns us however that, though mental diseases are now on the decline in Ceylon, a large proportion of the decrease in the figures is probably due to a difference in the interpretation and application of the rule on the subject.

According to the Census Statistics for England and Wales the proportion of the mentally deranged has been steadily increasing. It is held, however, that the returns are unreliable because of the unsuitability of the ordinary Census machinery for the collection of such information. Similar ideas prevail in Queensland, for in the Report for that Colony it is stated that "as many persons objected to furnish particulars regarding such of their family as might be subject to idiocy, fits, &c., it would be better to limit the inquiry to questions not likely to wound the sensibilities of those called upon to supply the information."

* See note *, page lvii.

With regard to Leprosy, Dr. Clemow in his book on the Geography of Disease, says :— "Some races appear to be more liable to become leprous than others, but such differences may as often be ascribed to differences in mode of life and of exposure to the cause of the disease, as to true racial differences. All races can become subjects of the malady ; but at the present day Europeans and the White Races generally seem to escape it much more readily than the Natives in countries where it is endemic—as for example China, India, and South Africa." The Leprous.

Returns of the number of persons suffering from this malady were obtained by ten of our Colonies, and it is to be regretted that among our Asiatic Dependencies, in all of which, with the exception of Wei Hai Wei, the disease is more or less prevalent, returns are available for India alone.

At the last Census 97,340 lepers were enumerated in the Indian Empire, 1,230 in the Cape of Good Hope, 135 in Cyprus, 80 in Malta, 39 in St. Lucia, 24 in the Orange River Colony, 20 in Grenada, 11 in Gambia (Colony), 4 in Sierra Leone (Colony), and one in St. Helena. In a few of the other Colonies, although the complete numbers of persons suffering from this malady were not ascertained, there were enumerated in Lepers' Asylums or Homes, 263 persons in Ceylon, 122 in Jamaica, 51 in Mauritius, and 38 in Queensland. In no place, however, did the proportion reach one per thousand of the total population. It will thus be seen that the disease is of very little numerical importance except in India. Of the 97,340 lepers recorded in India at the Census of 1901, no fewer than 72,403 were males, the great disparity between the sexes being, however, partly due to the omission of many of the female lepers. In the other Colonies for which returns are available, the male lepers were in excess of the female, but, with the exception of Malta, the disparity between the sexes was not so great as in India. It is gratifying to note that the efforts to eradicate this scourge in the Indian Empire are meeting with a certain amount of success. The proportion per 100,000 among the male population had decreased from 84 in 1881, and 68 in 1891, to 48 in 1901, and among females from 29 in 1881, and 23 in 1891, to 17 in 1901. It appears from the Indian Census Report that "the Census of 1881 showed a considerable increase in the number of lepers in India, and some years later, when public attention was attracted to the subject by the death of Father Damien, who for 16 years had devoted himself to the relief of the Hawaiian lepers, these figures were taken as indicating a rapid spread of the disease, and a Leprosy Commission was appointed to visit India, and inquire into the etiology and dissemination of the disease, and the means by which it might be stamped out. This was in 1890. The Census of 1891, which was taken while the Commission was still in India, showed a marked general decline in the number of lepers, and the Commission had no difficulty in disposing of the cry that had been raised that leprosy was an Imperial danger."

CONCLUSION.

The difficulties encountered in the preparation of this report and of the annexed tables have been neither few in number nor trivial in kind : and the task of surmounting them has been rendered more arduous by reason of the insufficiency of the clerical staff available for the extra duty required of them.

For the assistance and information of those who may hereafter be entrusted with similar functions, we desire by way of conclusion to summarize the results of our experience, both in taking the last English Census and in dealing with the results of recent Census enumerations in other parts of the King's Dominions. To the following considerations, therefore, we desire respectfully to request your special attention.

In the first place, it is desirable that in all parts of the Empire a Census should be taken at regular intervals and, as far as practicable, at about the same time. Nevertheless it is not absolutely essential that the enumeration should everywhere be completed on the same day. Considerations of climate, as well as of religious and social differences, make it obvious that the date most convenient for Census taking in England may not be equally convenient for the process, say in India or in Australia. Again, even in the less civilized countries the effort should be made to enumerate the population by, at any rate, a counting of heads : whilst in the more civilized countries considerations of expense should not be permitted to limit the amount of Census information which, on general grounds, it may be desirable to obtain.

Regarding the interval between the Census enumerations, it seems generally to be admitted that in no case should this exceed 10 years. In Countries where the movement of the population is restricted, and where the economic and industrial conditions are undisturbed, a decennial Census would probably suffice, but wherever a population possesses facilities for movement and undergoes constant economic change, a quinquennial Census is desirable.

To the Educational, Poor Law, Sanitary and other Authorities, severally, it is essential to know at frequently recurring intervals the exact populations of the areas they administer. But the chief reason for a quinquennial Census is that, assuming the complete registration of Births and Deaths, it affords the means of obtaining increased accuracy in the calculation of Vital Statistics; these depend in intercensal years upon estimates of population, which become less trustworthy as the period to which they refer becomes more remote from a Census enumeration. As the health of communities has undoubtedly improved wherever due attention has been paid to the teaching of Vital Statistics, it is to be hoped that the question of cost, which has been the principal obstacle to a quinquennial Census in the United Kingdom, will not in future prevent the taking of such a Census in all those parts of the Empire where it would be desirable.

A Copy of the Occupier's Schedule used at the Census of England and Wales (1901) is given on page 298, from which it will be seen that it was divided into 10 columns:—(1) Name and Surname; (2) Relation to Head of Family; (3) Condition as to Marriage; (4) Sex; (5) Age last Birthday; (6) Profession or Occupation; (7) If Employer, Worker, or Working on Own Account; (8) If Working at Home; (9) Where Born; (10) If Deaf and Dumb, Blind, Lunatic, Imbecile or Feeble-minded. The Schedule used in Wales contained an extra column (No. 11) Language Spoken. From time to time, variations from, and additions to, these inquiries have been suggested, but experience has shown the limitations of a system which depends on the occupier for answers to questions in the Schedule: those questions must be such that the least educated classes in the community can understand them.

It is better to ask for a moderate amount of information and to concentrate efforts on getting that amount with the greatest attainable accuracy, than to call for much information on many subjects, even though they may appear important to certain sections of the public.

It is much to be desired that, as far as local circumstances permit, the Census questions submitted in the several parts of the Empire should be uniform in character. This requirement does not necessarily mean uniformity in results, for a great deal depends on the interpretation of replies, on the classification and tabulation of statistics, and on the form in which they are presented in the Tables.

Houses. Most of the Colonial Returns furnish information as to the number of habitations or houses, while some discriminate among houses that are built of stone, brick, wood, metal, thatch, wattle and dab, mud, or bark. It may be said that in nearly all Countries the satisfactory definition of a house has troubled successive generations of Census Authorities.

In England and Wales the definition of "house" adopted for Census purposes has hitherto been:—"All the space within the external and party walls of a building." Acting on this definition, a block of residential flats or of industrial dwellings is regarded as a single house, quite irrespective of the number of separate occupiers. In view, therefore, of the rapid growth in all large Cities of this class of building, it is certainly a point for serious consideration whether some modification should not be made in the present definition of "house."

Closely connected with the inquiry as to the number of houses is the proportion of persons to rooms. This information throws valuable light upon the problem of the housing of the people, while also affording a fair index of their Sanitary condition; it is therefore desirable that, wherever possible, these particulars should be included in the Colonial Returns.

Population. The accurate enumeration of the population is of the first importance, as this forms the natural basis of all Vital Statistics.

The population, as ascertained by the Census, should include all persons who were alive at midnight on the date of the enumeration, adequate arrangements being made to enumerate travellers and vagrants, and also to ensure that such persons shall not be counted more than once; viz.: first at the place from which they may have started in the night, and again at the place at which they arrived in the morning. The numbers of the military population, and of the persons on board Naval and Mercantile ships lying in Ports, Harbours, Docks, and Rivers should be included in the total population, but they should also be shown separately, because it is necessary for some statistical purposes to include them with the general population, and for other statistical purposes to exclude them.

There is some difference of opinion among International Statisticians as to what should constitute the population of a district. The Dominion of Canada follows the example of some Foreign Countries in adopting the population de jure; that is to say, the population of a district is held to comprise all persons usually resident within its boundaries, including those temporarily absent, and excluding those only temporarily present. The English Census and all other Colonial Censuses, except that for Canada, adopt the population de facto, that is to say, the population of a district comprises all persons actually present within a given area on the Census night whether permanent or temporary residents.

Adverting to the classification of the population by Sexes, Ages, Condition as to Marriage, Birth-places, Religions, Education, and Infirmities, there should be no great difficulty in fixing a uniform standard for the tabulation of the results of the Census inquiries on these subjects.

Sexes.

The Sexes should be distinguished in all population Tables.

Ages.

While in the earlier periods of life the exact age is almost certain to be known, it is generally admitted that, among adult persons, a large proportion do not know their precise age and, as already stated, have a great tendency to return their ages as some exact multiple of ten. That many women purposely understate their ages is also common knowledge. It is doubtful, therefore, whether, unless the figures are adjusted by some process of graduation, the tabulation of adult ages for individual years possesses much Statistical value. For nearly all purposes it should be sufficient to tabulate the Adult ages in quinquennial periods, from which figures may be obtained for such purposes as the calculation of rates of mortality in decennial age periods, the quinquennial periods being so combined that the year which is a multiple of ten shall come in the middle of the period, e.g., 25–35, 35–45 and so on.

Conditi as to Marria

In some of the Colonies the ages of the population were not shown in relation to "civil condition"; but it is most desirable that these particulars should be tabulated in combination, thereby recording valuable Statistical data for the calculation of legitimate Birth-rates based on the number of married women of conceptive ages in the population, as well as for the calculation of Marriage-rates based on the section of the population in which Marriages take place, viz., the unmarried (of marriageable age) and the widowed.

In the Census Returns for England and Wales, New South Wales and Western Australia a Table is shown giving the Ages, in combination, of husbands and wives, and such information might usefully be given, where possible, in other Colonial Census publications.

Occupa tions.

As has already been stated the subject of Occupation is the most complicated of the Census inquiries. It has often been suggested that the example of the United States and of some European Countries should be followed by supplementing the Census information with Returns obtained by detailed inquiry spread over a considerable time. It may be said, however, that the Census Schedule affords data of a reasonably reliable nature, which, if due care be taken in their classification, will give a view of the Occupational distribution of the population, tolerably true in its main lines, and sufficient for most of the practical purposes for which the statistics are used.

The English classification of Occupations is based on the system initiated by Dr. Farr in 1851, with changes, extensions and modifications of detail necessitated by modern industrial development. In 1901 the Occupations of the population were classified under 23 orders, divided into 77 sub-orders, these being again sub-divided into 382 Occupational headings. Perhaps it may not be out of place to reproduce here some of the main principles of the classification that were then adopted.

Persons engaged in more than one occupation were referred to the occupation which in each case appeared to be the most important; or, if there was no difference in this respect, to the occupation first mentioned in the Return. Thus, a manufacturing trade was selected in preference to a selling trade. A Clergyman who was also a Schoolmaster was classed under the heading "Schoolmaster." Persons returned as "Pensioners" or as "Retired" from any specified profession or business (except Officers of the Army or Navy, Clergymen of the Established Church, and Medical Men) appear in the main Tables as simply "Pensioners" or "Retired." Inmates of Lunatic Asylums or of Workhouses, when returned as Insane and yet described by their former occupations, were—irrespective of age—classed as "Retired." Other Inmates of Workhouses, unless aged 60 years or upwards, and Patients in Hospitals and Prisoners of all ages, were classed under their stated occupations on the assumption that their ordinary work had been relinquished for a time only. Inmates of Workhouses aged 60 years and upwards, whose former occupations were returned, were dealt with as "Retired."

The numbers given under any heading included Apprentices, Assistants, Workmen, and Labourers, as well as Masters, except where special headings were provided for subordinates. Clerks were distinguished under separate headings as Civil Service Clerks, Law Clerks, Bank Clerks, Railway Clerks, Insurance Clerks, and Commercial Clerks; and Messengers, Porters, and Watchmen (not in Government or Railway service) formed together a heading by themselves.

In the several Colonial Censuses various systems for the classification of Occupations were adopted differing more or less in principle from the English system. A single instance is sufficient for illustration: in Australasia a Census Conference was held, and a scheme of Occupational Classification was adopted which, while securing uniformity throughout the several States of the Commonwealth, yet differed materially in principle from the English system. The main principle of the Australasian scheme was that all persons employed in direct connection with any of the industries, callings or pursuits specified therein, should be classed to such, whatever might be the capacity in which they were engaged, Clerks, Carmen, Engine Drivers, &c., being thus included with other workers in the several industries; whereas, in the English Classification, Clerks (other than Civil Service, Railway, Bank, and Insurance Clerks) were classified under the heading "Commercial Clerk," and Engine Drivers, Carmen, Carters and Carriers, Messengers, Porters and Watchmen were classified under specific headings. The Returns for India and Ceylon have the merit of distinguishing the number of persons of each sex who derive their subsistence from others following a particular occupation.

It will be obvious from the foregoing remarks that the uniform classification of Occupations throughout the several parts of the Empire presents considerable difficulties, more especially as any alteration of system impairs the value of the figures of previous Censuses for comparative purposes: it is to be hoped, however, that, before another Census of the Empire comes to be taken, an agreement as to uniformity of classification will be arrived at among the several Census Authorities.

irth-laces. It is important that there should be some means of accurately determining the amount of migration among different Countries. In the first place, an inquirer for such information would naturally refer to Returns of emigration and immigration, but unfortunately these statistics are generally found to be defective; the information furnished by the Census Returns as to the Birth-places of the population should give more precise data than at present, and should afford the means of tracing the effects of immigration from without, and of migration within, a Country.

The distribution by Birth-place of the enumerated natives of a Country should show the Birth-places in local sub-divisions, and the Country of Birth should be tabulated for persons enumerated within, but born without, that Country, distinguishing the Birth-places of British Subjects, Naturalized British Subjects, and Foreign Subjects.

ducation. As already stated, the information under this head, obtained through the agency of a Census, is necessarily of a very imperfect character, being limited to the endeavour to ascertain the number of persons who are either able, or unable, to read and write. Even such returns are usually untrustworthy owing to the refusal of many people to acknowledge their ignorance, and probably also to differences of opinion among the several authorities as to what constitutes ability to perform these elementary functions. If, however, this subject continues to form part of the Census inquiry it would appear desirable to supplement it by returns from the Educational Authorities, such as the proportion of Schools to population at school ages, and the proportion of children of school age who attend school. Indirect evidence of the spread of elementary Education in a Country can also be obtained from the proportions of persons who are able to sign the Marriage Register and of those who merely affix their marks.

Religion.

In view of the comparative success that was obtained in taking a religious Census in Ireland and in 28 of our Colonies, there seems to be no valid reason why a column for returns of religion should not be added to the Census Schedule for nearly all parts of the Empire. In some of the cases specified the return was optional, doubtless to meet the objections of those who regarded the question as too inquisitorial. It appears, however, that those who took advantage of this conscience clause were not very numerous; for instance, in Western Australia they amounted to somewhat less than $1\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. of the total population.

Infirmities.

In most parts of the Empire returns were obtained of the numbers of the Blind, the Deaf and Dumb, the Lunatic, and the Leprous. It might have been expected that these returns would furnish valuable information; but, except in so far as they emanate from public Institutions, they are untrustworthy, mainly owing to the unwillingness of persons to admit, either as regards themselves or their children, the existence of any serious bodily or mental defect.

In Ireland and in several of the Colonies returns of sickness were obtained, but there is an initial difficulty in defining sickness, and, further, it should be borne in mind that the incidence of sickness is considerably modified by conditions of climate, and that the amount of sickness in a community varies according to the time of year.

Appended to this Report is a Table, page 296, which shows in brief form the subjects of Census inquiry in each part of the Empire, the idea for which we have borrowed from an able paper by Reginald H. Hooker, Esq., M.A., entitled "Modes of Census-taking in the British Dominions," which was read before the Royal Statistical Society in January, 1894.

From what has been advanced it will clearly appear that, where several practically independent authorities are concerned, the task of securing uniformity is by no means an easy one, especially as regards either:—

(1) The settlement of questions to be included in the Census Schedules; or

(2) The classification and tabulation of results.

We would suggest, therefore, for your favourable consideration, whether it might not be desirable to arrange for a Conference between the representatives of our Colonies and Dependencies and our own Census Authorities for the purpose of discussing the essential points of difference, and of arriving, if possible, at some agreement in regard to them. If this suggestion be adopted, the Conference should take place prior to the commencement of the preliminaries in connection with the taking of the Census of 1911.

In considering the subject, it must be borne in mind that the present is the first serious attempt that has been made by this Department to prepare anything like a full and comparative résumé of the results of the Census, as far as available, of the entire British Empire. We accordingly present this volume with considerable diffidence, whilst we venture to hope that, notwithstanding its many imperfections, it will at all events awaken renewed interest in Census Statistics, promote greater uniformity of action in the future, and create a fresh link of sympathy between the Census Authorities of the Mother Country and those of her Colonies and Dependencies.

We cannot conclude our Report without recording our high appreciation of the able, zealous, and unflagging services rendered by Mr. A. Mundy and Mr. A. Bellingham, our Secretaries, and also by Mr. T. A. Saunders, of our Statistical Branch, in the compilation and arrangement of the voluminous tables and in the preparation of the report; and we also desire to recognize our obligations to the Colonial Office for the cordial help which they have invariably accorded to us, when required, during the period of our labours.

We have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient Servants,

WILLIAM COSPATRICK DUNBAR, Registrar General.

* Derived from the Colonial Office List.

(a) Indian Empire.—The Census figures for 1891 have, as far as possible, been adjusted for changes of jurisdiction, so as to show the population, at that date, of the various Provinces and States as constituted in 1901. It should be stated, however, that the figures for 1901 include the population in certain new areas not enumerated in 1891; thus, of the gross increase of over 7 millions of population in the decennium 1891–1901, about 2½ millions were enumerated in new areas. The exclusion of this population reduces the rate of increase in the decennium 1891–1901 from 2·5 per cent. to 1·5 per cent. The populations of the French possessions in India (273,185) and of the Portuguese possessions (329,223) are not included in the above Table.

(b) Andaman and Nicobar Islands.—The population for 1901 includes the Aboriginal Tribes (1,882 Andamanese and 6,310 Nicobarese) who were not enumerated in 1891.

(c) Assam.—The population for 1901 includes that for the Lushai Hills (82,434) and for Manipur (284,465); the population for 1891 includes only part of that for the Lushai Hills (estimated at 43,634) and excludes that for Manipur.

(d) Baluchistan (Districts and Administered Territories)—It is not possible to give an estimate of the population in 1891. The area of 45,804 square miles includes Western Sinjrani (9,407 square miles); the population in 1901 is exclusive of the figures for this district.

(e) Burma.—The populations of the Shan States, the Chin Hills, and Karenni are included for the first time in 1901.

(f) Punjab.—The population of certain new areas, enumerated for the first time in 1901, is not included in the figures for the population of 1891.

(g) Baluchistan (Agency Tracts).—It is not possible to give an estimate of the population in 1891. The area of 86,511 square miles includes Kharan and Makran (45,931 square miles); the population is exclusive of the figures for this district.

(h) Rajputana Agency—The figures for 1891 include the Bhil population roughly enumerated in that year.

(i) Ceylon.—The prisoners of war from South Africa numbering 4,914 are excluded from the figures for 1901.

(j) Pahang.—It is stated that the figures for 1891 are unreliable; the population was probably over 70,000. The uninhabited houses in Pahang are included with the inhabited, as the returns are not sufficiently accurate to distinguish them.

TABLE 2.—AREA; HOUSES, 1901; POPULATION, enumerated or estimated, 1891 and 1901, and Increase or Decrease in Population, 1891–1901—cont.

NOTE.—The figures, except those printed in italics which are wholly or partly estimated, are derived from Census Returns, with inclusion in the population, when possible, of Soldiers and of Sailors of the Royal Navy and Merchant Service.

* Derived from the Colonial Office List. † Derived from the Statesman's Year Book. ‡ Derived from the Board of Trade Statistical Tables (Part XXVI.).
§ Furnished in reply to a question in the House of Commons (5th Aug. 1903). ‖ Adopted from the Census of 1891.

(a) Hong Kong.—The figures include the population of British Kowloon—19,997 in 1891 and 43,871 in 1901.

(b) Lagos.—The population was partly enumerated and partly estimated. The Superintendent of the Census states that the population of the Colony and Protectorate may be put down at 1¼ millions.

(c) Cape of Good Hope, Basutoland, Natal and Zululand, Orange River Colony, Transvaal and Swaziland, Bechuanaland Protectorate, and Southern Rhodesia.—The figures marked c are the populations enumerated in 1904, those for Natal and Zululand, and for the Transvaal and Swaziland being derived from the Preliminary Reports on the Census of that year. The figures for the Cape of Good Hope in 1891 include an estimated population for Pondoland. Those for the Orange River Colony in 1904 include 7,166 Military exclusive of women and children with troops, and those for the Transvaal 14,149 Military inclusive of women and children with troops; the 290,119 Houses in the Transvaal include 195,598 Kafir Huts; and of the 27,762 Houses in Swaziland all but 435 are Kafir Huts.

(d) Northern Rhodesia.—The estimated population given is exclusive of that for North-Western Rhodesia, for which no estimate can be obtained.

(e) St. Helena.—The prisoners of War from South Africa are excluded from the figures for 1901. The general population of the island exclusive of Military and Shipping populations decreased from 3,877 in 1891 to 3,342 in 1901.

(f) Mauritius and Dependencies.—The dependencies comprise the following islands, viz.:—Rodrigues, Diégo Garcia, Agaléga, Peros Banhos, Coëtivy, Salomon Islands, Six Islands, St. Brandon, San Juan de Nova, and Eagle Island. The area given in the table includes only the Islands of Mauritius (705 square miles) and Rodrigues (130 square miles).

(g) Dominion of Canada.—The uninhabited houses and houses building are not distinguished in the returns.

(h) North-West Territories.—These Territories comprise Alberta, Assiniboia, and Saskatchewan, with populations in 1901 of 65,876, 67,385, and 25,679 respectively.

(i) Unorganized Territories.—These Territories include the Yukon, with an area of 196,976 square miles, and population in 1901 of 27,219 persons.

(j) Bermudas.—Foreign visitors (707 in number) are included in the total population in 1901, but excluded from the male and female columns as the sexes were not distinguished.

(k) Jamaica.—No Census was taken in 1901; the populations given above are computed from Birth and Death registration with corrections for migration.

NOTE.—The figures, except those printed in italics which are wholly or partly estimated, are derived from Census Returns, with inclusion in the population, when possible, of Soldiers and of Sailors of the Royal Navy and Merchant Service.

* Derived from the Colonial Office List. † Derived from the Statesman's Year Book. ‡ Exclusive of nomadic Aborigines.

(a) St. Christopher (or St. Kitts).—The figures do not include the population for the island of Sombrero, added to the Colony of the Leeward Islands by Order in Council on 10th August, 1904.

(b) Grenada and its Dependencies.—The Dependencies comprise Carriacou and certain islets, only two of which—Isle de Rhonde and Petit Martinique—are returned as being inhabited. The populations in 1901 of these three islands were 6,497, 89, and 319 respectively.

(c) St. Vincent, Barbados, British Guiana.—No Census was taken in 1901; the populations given above are computed from Birth and Death registration with corrections for migration. The population of British Guiana is exclusive of the wandering Aborigines in the interior of the country, who were estimated to number 10,000 in 1891.

(d) Falkland Islands.—The area is inclusive of that of South Georgia (1,000 square miles), which is uninhabited.

(e) Australian Commonwealth.—The populations of the several States as given above include the Aborigines, whose numbers were as follows :—

—	Aborigines.
	1891.	1901.
	Persons.	Persons.	Males.	Females.
New South Wales	8,280	4,287	2,451	1,836
Victoria	565	652	367	285
Queensland	20,585	26,670	—	—

Western Australia	5,670	6,212	3,425	2,787
Total	58,889	64,944	—	—

In New South Wales the Aboriginal population included in 1901 all the "full blooded" and the uncivilized half castes. In Queensland the figures in 1891 were estimated, and were exclusive of those for civilized half castes; in 1901 the figures included an estimate of 20,000 nomadic Aborigines, together with 5,137 "full blooded" and 1,533 half castes who were enumerated. In Western Australia the figures appear to relate only to civilized Aborigines.

(f) New Zealand.—Includes North Island, Middle Island, Stewart Island and several small adjacent islands, together with the Chatham Islands, Kermadec Islands, Auckland Islands, Antipodes Islands, Bounty Islands and Campbell Islands. The populations given above include a naval population of 1,499 in 1891 and 352 in 1901; also 41,993 Maoris in 1891 and 43,143 in 1901, these latter numbers do not include half caste Maoris living amongst Europeans and enumerated with the general population.

(g) Cook Islands and other Dependencies.—The "other Dependencies" of New Zealand comprise the following islands :—Savage or Niué, Palmerston, Penrhyn or Tongarewa, Humphrey or Manahiki, Rierson or Rakaanga, Danger or Pukapuka, Nassau, and Suwarrow.

(h) Other Islands.—Among the "other Islands" for which no statistics are available are Amboyna Cay, Ashmore Group, Bahrein Islands, Baker Island, Bell Cay, Bird Island, Bramble Cay, Caroline and Flint Islands, Cato Island, Ducie Island, Duff or Wilson Islands, Gough's Island (or Diego Alvarez), Great and Little Basses, Inaccessible Island, Kuria Muria Islands, Minicoy Island, Nightingale Island, Palmyra Island, Raine Island, Santa Cruz Island, Sprattley Island, Starbuck Island, Victoria Island, Vostoc Island, and Washington Island.

TABLE 3.—CHIEF CITIES and TOWNS; POPULATION 1891 and 1901, and INCREASE or DECREASE in POPULATION, 1891-1901.

NOTE.—In this Table the Capital or Principal City is given first, the other Towns being arranged for convenience in alphabetical order. In nearly all cases the populations relate to the areas as constituted in 1901. For the populations of other Towns in the British Empire, see detailed tables for each Colony.

(a) Colombo.—The population given is exclusive of the Military and Shipping.

(b) Singapore.—The figures are exclusive of those for the military and floating populations, and for the vagrants or wayfarers.

(c) George Town.—The figures are exclusive of those for the military and floating populations. In the Report on the Census of Penang it is stated that: "owing to the confusion which was made in 1891 returns between the Municipality and the North-East District (part of the population of the former being included in the latter) it is almost useless to compare the totals of the Municipality for this year, 1901, with those of 1891."

(d) Malacca.—The figures are exclusive of those for the floating population.

(e) Sandakan.—The figures include the population of the Bay in addition to that of the Town and Suburbs.

(f) Victoria.—The population given for 1891 apparently excludes races other than European, American and Chinese.

(g) Bathurst.—The figures include those for the floating population.

(h) Freetown.—The figures include those for the military population.

(i) Gold Coast Colony.—It appears doubtful whether the figures for 1891 are strictly comparable with those for 1901.

(j) Lagos Island and Harbour.—The populations include persons on board vessels.

(k) Cape of Good Hope, Natal.—The figures marked * are the populations enumerated in 1904.

(l) Cape Town, East London, Port Elizabeth.—The populations are inclusive of persons on board vessels.

(m) Natal.—The figures are the total populations of all races enumerated in 1904. The figures for the European or White populations in 1891 and 1904 respectively, were :—

(a) Orange River Colony and Transvaal.—The figures are exclusive of those for the military. The estimated populations, in 1896, of the towns in the Transvaal, were :—12,000 in Pretoria, and 102,714 in Johannesburg. The figures marked * are the populations enumerated in 1904.

(b) Port Louis.—The populations include persons on board vessels, and those enumerated on the Flat, Gabriel, and Foquet Islands.

(c) Dominion of Canada.—The list of Canadian cities and towns contains all those with populations exceeding 25,000 in 1901.

(d) St. John's (Newfoundland).—The populations are approximate numbers within the municipal limits.

(e) Kingston and Port Royal.—The population for 1901 is an estimated number.

(f) St. George, Grenada.—The populations include persons on board vessels.

(g) Port of Spain.—The populations include persons on board vessels.

(h) Belize.—The figures for 1891 include those for the "Harbour, Fabers Road, etc.," which were separately enumerated in 1901, and then contained 393 persons.

(i) Georgetown.—No Census having been taken in 1901, the population for that year has been estimated from the returns of births, deaths, and migration. Had the population of the City continued to increase at the same rate as between 1881 and 1891, the population in 1901 would have been 59,929.

(a) Australian Commonwealth.—The list of towns contains all those with populations exceeding 20,000 in 1901.

(b) Sydney.—The populations include those of the Suburbs, persons on board vessels, and the aboriginal population. The population within the Municipal City was 106,955 in 1891 and 111,255 in 1901.

(c) Newcastle.—The populations include persons on board vessels, but exclude aborigines.

(d) Melbourne.—The populations are for "Greater Melbourne," i.e., the area within a radius of 10 miles from the Melbourne Post Office; the population in the City proper was 73,361 in 1891 and 68,374 in 1901.

(e) Brisbane.—The populations include those for the City, and Suburbs within a radius of 10 miles from the General Post Office; the population of Brisbane Municipality was 26,373 in 1891 and 28,953 in 1901.

(f) Adelaide.—The populations include those for the City, and Suburbs within a radius of 10 miles from the General Post Office. The population of the City of Adelaide was 37,837 in 1891 and 39,240 in 1901.

(g) Hobart.—The figures include the shipping population and the Half Castes.

(h) New Zealand.—The list of towns for New Zealand contains all those with populations exceeding 20,000 in 1901. The figures for 1896 are given for comparison instead of those for 1891. The populations are exclusive of Maoris and the Half Castes living with them, and also exclude the persons on vessels. The Suburbs of the three chief Cities are not included; the following figures show the growth during the 10 years 1891 to 1901 in these Cities together with their Suburbs:—

(a) Victoria.—The "Not Stated" comprise (1) Children (under 15) 502 Males and 376 Females; and (2) Adults (over 15) 2,062 Males and 1,383 Females. Where no data were available for dividing the "Not Stated" into "under" and "over 15" an estimate was made.

(b) Queensland.—The "Not Stated" comprise (1) 20,000 Aborigines, the estimated number of nomadic, full-blooded and half-caste, for whom no particulars as to either age or sex can be given; (2) Children, 7 Males and 14 Females; and (3) Adults, principally Pacific Islanders, 3,312 Males and 368 Females.

(c) South Australia.—The "Not Stated" are all the Aborigines (full-blooded and half-caste), of whom 5,505 are Children (2,848 Males and 2,657 Females), and 21,618 Adults (11,577 Males and 10,041 Females) Details relating to "Adults" and "Children" were not always procurable, so the figures are partly estimated.

b See note a on this page. c Including 1,947 Woodcutters. d See note c, page 50.

e The classification used in tabulating the occupations of the people in the Australian States and New Zealand, is a purely economic one. It groups together all persons, in whatever capacity engaged, who are more or less dependent for a livelihood on any one profession, trade, industry, or other pursuit; thus, the persons classed as Woollen Manufacturers embrace not only the Proprietors, Overseers, and Workers in Woollen Mills, but also the Clerks, Labourers, and Carters, and others employed in connection with the industry; the term Draper or Grocer embraces Principals, Assistants, Clerks, and others employed in or attached to drapery or grocery establishments. TABLE 6a.—LIST of OCCUPATIONAL HEADINGS adopted in the CENSUS of ENGLAND and WALES, 1901.

NOTE.—In classifying the people by their Occupations the following rules have been observed:—Persons returned as engaged in more than one occupation have been referred to the occupation which in each case appeared to be the most important; or, if there was no difference in this respect, to the occupation first mentioned in the Return. Thus, a manufacturing trade has been selected in preference to a selling trade. A Clergyman who is also a Schoolmaster has been classed under the heading "Schoolmaster." Persons returned as "Pensioners" or as "Retired" from any specified profession or business (except Officers of the Army or Navy, Clergymen and Medical Men) appear in this Table as simply "Pensioners" or "Retired" (see Order XXIII.) Inmates of Lunatic Asylums or of Workhouses, when returned as Insane and yet described by their former occupations, have—irrespective of age—been classed as "Retired." Other Inmates of Workhouses, unless aged 60 years or upwards, and Patients in Hospitals and Prisoners of all ages, have been classed under their stated occupations on the assumption that their ordinary work has been relinquished for a time only. Inmates of Workhouses aged 60 years and upwards, whose former occupations were returned, have been dealt with as "Retired."

The numbers given under any heading include Apprentices, Assistants, Workmen, and Labourers, as well as Masters, except where special headings are provided for subordinates. Messengers, Errand Boys, Porters, and Watchmen are, however, shown under a separate heading, and Clerks are classified as Civil Service Clerks, Bank Clerks, Railway Clerks, Insurance Clerks, or Commercial Clerks, according to the particular service in which they are engaged.

In the list of Occupations the Male designations only are given for convenience, except where the occupations are exclusively followed by Females.

(a) Ireland.—In the Irish Census Report the religions are returned under four principal headings, "Roman Catholic," "Protestant Episcopalian," "Presbyterian," and "Methodist." "All other Denominations," returned under 313 headings, are classified as far as possible according to the arrangement adopted in the Table. "Presbyterian" includes Reformed Presbyterian (6,532), United Free Church of Scotland (3,147), Non-Subscribing Presbyterian (1,878), and smaller numbers returned under 11 other headings. "Minor Christian Sects" includes Brethren (3,742), Christian Brethren (2,244), Moravian (1,373), Plymouth Brethren (1,311); no other heading included more than 250 persons. "Pagan"—The 31 persons included under this heading were returned as Idolaters. "No Religion" includes No Denomination (792), Freethinker (115), &c. "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c.," includes Unspecified (336), Unknown (953), Information Refused (695), and Nominal (13).

(b) Malta.—Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c.," are included 10,882 persons in the Garrison, 11,694 in the Royal Navy, and 572 on merchant vessels, whose religions were not recorded.

(c) Cyprus.—Under the heading "Various Catholic Churches" are included 1,130 Maronites, 491 Gregorians, and 26 Armenian Catholics. The heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c.," comprises the British Military, whose religions were not recorded.

(d) Indian Empire.—Under the heading "Presbyterian" the Indian Census Report includes, 6,125 Welsh Calvinistic Methodists, 229 Members of the Alliance Mission, and 8 of the Reformed Dutch Church; the first of these sects is included in the above Table with "Methodists," and the two latter, with "Minor Christian Sects." Under the heading "Lutheran" the Indian Census Report includes, in addition to members of the various National Lutheran Churches, persons returned as "Zwinglian" and "Moravian." Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Members of the London Mission (10,321) and of the Alliance Mission (229), Evangelist (1,966), Undenominational, Nonconformist, &c. (5,008), and many other sects whose numbers are small. Under the heading "Various Catholic Churches" are included Abyssinians (9), Armenians (1,053), Syrians (Jacobite and St. Thomas), and Chaldæan Christians (248,741), and Catholics of the Syrian Rite who recognize the supremacy of the Pope but use Syriac in their liturgy (322,586). Under the heading "Hindu" are included 92,419 Vedic Theists (Arya Samaj), and 4,050 Eclectic Theists (Brahmo Samaj). "Primitive Animistic" denotes the primitive forms of belief found among the Jungle Tribes—the Mundas, Santals, Bhils, &c. The number given in the Table, under this heading, includes 127,011 persons estimated to be living in some of the wilder parts of Burma, where religion was not recorded; most of these persons were probably "Animists." Under "Indefinite, &c," are included 2,889 persons shown in the Indian Census Report, among the non-Christian population, under the heading "Minor Religions and Religions not returned"; and 1,186 persons classified for convenience in that Report among the Christian population, of whom 1,051 were adherents of the Yuyomayam sect, and the remainder were returned as Agnostics, Freethinkers, Theosophists, &c.

* The figures in this column relate only to that part of the Colony of Lagos (viz., the Island and Harbour and Ebute Metta), in which a Census was taken.

(e) Ceylon.—"Christian"—The number shown in the Table under this heading consists of those portions of the Military and Shipping population so described. The heading "Various Catholic Churches" includes persons described in the Ceylon Census Report as Independent Catholics. They were formerly members of the Goanese Mission, but when the separate existence of their Mission was terminated in 1886 by a concordat between the Pope and the King of Portugal, the arrangement was not accepted by this section of the Goanese Catholics. "Hindu"—It appears from the Ceylon Census Report (Vol. I, page 96) that many of the Tamils who should have been returned as "Hindu" appear in the returns as "Buddhist."

(f) Cape of Good Hope.—Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included 399,487 persons belonging to the Dutch Reformed Church, and 6,209 to the Z. A. Gereformeerde Kerk. Under the heading "No Religion" are included 62 Atheists, 131 Freethinkers, and 8 Secularists, the remainder being returned simply as of No Religion.

(g) Natal.—Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included 11,340 persons belonging to the Dutch Reformed Church. Buddhists and Brahmins are not separately distinguished, and are therefore shown together under the former heading. The religions of the Native Races were not recorded, and the Native population is, therefore, excluded from the Table.

(h) Orange River Colony.—Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included 124,923 persons belonging to the Dutch Reformed Church, 5,507 to the "Reformed" Church, and 3,483 to the Paris Evangelical Mission Society.

(i) Gold Coast.—"Church of England"—The number included under this heading is estimated. "Methodist," "Lutheran," and "Roman Catholic"—The numbers under these headings were furnished by the Authorities of the various Missions. "Lutherans" consist of 17,494 members of the Basel Mission and 1,511 of the North German Mission. "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c."—The return of religions is incomplete; the mass of the people still observe fetish worship, while the Mohammedans are by far the most numerous of the other non-Christians.

(j) Basutoland.—Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included 40,956 members of the Paris Evangelical Mission and 40 Seventh Day Adventists. "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c."—It is probable that the number under this heading should be included as "Pagan."

(k) Mauritius.—"Lutheran"—The number shown under this heading includes 140 Swedenborgians. The heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c.," includes the Military population (2,313).

(l) Seychelles.—Those classified as "Lutheran" include 5 Swedenborgians. Under the heading "Other Non-Christian Religions" are included 65 whose religion is described in the Seychelles Census Report as "Chinese."

(a) Dominion of Canada.—Under the heading "Methodist" are included 10,193 Evangelicals. Under the heading "Baptist" are included Mennonites (31,797), and Tunkers (1,528). Under the heading "Lutheran" are included Swedenborgians (881). Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Disciples (14,900), Doukhobors (8,775), Adventists (8,058), Brethren (8,014), Mormons (6,891), United Brethren (4,701), Hornerites (2,775), Plymouth Brethren (2,774), Christian Scientists (2,619), and smaller numbers of 116 other sects. "Other Non-Christian Religions"—The numbers under this heading are Spiritualists (616), and Theosophists (107). "Agnostic"—In the Canadian Census Report "Atheist, Sceptic, Freethinker," are also included under this heading; it is not possible therefore to include them in the Table with others of "No Religion."

(b) Newfoundland and Labrador.—"Minor Christian Sects"—The numbers under this heading are Moravians (1,377), Reformed Church of England (3), and "Baptists and others" (174).

(c) Bermudas.—"Minor Christian Sects"—The numbers under this heading are Reformed Church of England (64), and Other Denominations (965). The heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." includes 707 foreign visitors.

(d) St. Lucia.—"Minor Christians Sects"—The numbers under this heading are Moravians (130), and other Denominations (60).

(e) Trinidad and Tobago.—Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Moravians (6,321), and Other Denominations (694).

(f) Falkland Islands.—The Religious Census was purely voluntary and is of little value, owing to the large number of persons who elected to make no return.

(g) New South Wales.—Under the heading "Methodist" are included Bible Christians (2,248). Under the heading "Baptist" are included "Adventist." Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Plymouth Brethren, Christian Brethren (2,133); Christadelphians (1,197), Mormons (679), Irvingites (442), Australian Church (418), and smaller numbers of 67 other sects. Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." are included 130 persons returned under indefinite headings, 13,068 who objected to state their religions, and 3,966 who omitted to specify them; the aboriginal population (4,287) is also included under this heading, as their religions were not recorded.

(h) Victoria.—Under the heading "Baptist" are included Adventists. Under the heading "Protestant" are included 250 children of parents of different Protestant denominations, whose religions were not stated. Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Disciples of Christ (10,682), Brethren, Christian Brethren (1,570), Seventh Day Adventists (1,086) Australian Church (964), Christadelphians (692), "Catholic Apostolic Church"—Irvingites (460), and smaller numbers of 64 other sects. Under the heading "Various Catholic Churches" are included persons returned simply as "Catholic." Under the heading "Confucian" the Victorian Census Report includes also Chinese of pure race who were originally returned as of "No Religion," "Pagan," "Chinese Church" or as "Religion not stated." Under the heading "Other Non-Christian Religions" are included Spiritualists (913). Under the heading "No Religion" are included No Denomination, No Sect (6,113), and Freethinker, Rationalist (2,042). Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." are included 10,827 persons who objected to state their religions.

(i) Queensland.—Under the heading "Lutheran" are included Swedenborgians (206). Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Apostolic (563), Catholic and Apostolic (379), Plymouth Brethren (574), Christadelphians (673), Christian Brethren (625) Church of Christ (1,784), Seventh Day Adventists (472), Undenominational (1,233), Brethren (377), and smaller numbers of 75 other sects. "Mohammedan"—in the Census Report for Queensland, Mohammedan and Pagan are shown together under one heading. "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c.," includes the nomadic Aborigines, estimated to number 20,000.

(j) South Australia.—Under the heading "Baptist" are included "Adventists." Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." are included No Denomination or Unspecified (5,416), the aborigines whose religions were not recorded (27,123), and 7,493 persons who objected to state their religions.

(k) Western Australia.—The numbers under the heading "Various Catholic Churches," are persons returned in the Census Report for Western Australia as Catholic (undefined). Under the heading "No Religion" are included "No Denomination" (1,956), and Freethinker (1,326). Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." are included 3,071 persons who objected to state their religions.

(l) Tasmania.—Under the heading "No Religion" are included "No Denomination" (515), and Agnostics, Deists. Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." are included 2,900 persons who objected to state their religions.

(m) New Zealand.—Under the heading "Minor Christian Sects" are included Brethren, Plymouth Brethren (7,484), Christadelphians (989), and Seventh Day Adventists (864). The numbers under the heading "Various Catholic Churches" are persons returned in the Census Report for New Zealand as Catholic (Undefined). Under the heading "Other Non-Christian Religions" are included Spiritualists (499), Theosophists (189). Under the heading "No Religion" are included No Denomination (4,473), and Freethinker (2,856). Under the heading "Indefinite, Unspecified, &c." are included the Maori population (43,143) and the Naval population (352), whose religions were not recorded, and 18,295 persons who objected to state their religions.

(a) Ireland.—Children under five years of age, numbering 442,712, are all classed as "Illiterate," i.e., unable to read or write.

(b) Malta and Gozo.—The Table relates only to the Maltese population (i.e., born in the Maltese Islands or of Maltese parentage) aged five years and upwards.

(c) Indian Empire.—Only those able to both read and write are distinguished in the returns. Two fairly numerous groups are classed as "Illiterate," viz., "Those who, though unable to write, can spell out the words of a book, and those whose caligraphic attainments extend only to the scrawling of their own name" (see Indian Census Report, page 157). The 946,150 persons shown in the column "Not Stated" were enumerated in tracts where literacy was not recorded.

(d) Ceylon.—Only those able to read and write are distinguished in the returns.

(f) Bahama Islands.—The return appears to be imperfect, as it is stated that "a large percentage of those who claimed to be able to read and write, or write, signed their names by making their mark." No explanation is given as to the precise degree of literary knowledge possessed by 111 persons returned as able to "Write only."

(g) Turks and Caicos Islands.—The returns show also 811 children "attending school," but it is not evident whether any or all of these are included in the columns Read and Write, or Read only.

(h) British Honduras.—The questions in the Census schedule relating to education were "Can Read?" "Can Write Name?"; the number in the second column represents the persons who answered both questions in the affirmative; the number in the third column those who replied negatively to the second question.

(i) New South Wales.—The numbers of Aborigines included in the Table are as follows :—

—	Males.	Females.	—	Males.	Females.
Able to read and write ..	142	108	Unable to read or write ..	954 (149 under 5 years.)	730 (136 under 5 years.)
Able to read only	21	9	Not stated	1,334	989

Children under five years of age, numbering 159,146, are all included in the column "Unable to Read or Write."

(j) Victoria.—The numbers of Aborigines included in the Table are as follows :—

—	Males.	Females.	—	Males.	Females.
Able to read and write ..	207	170	Unable to read or write ..	119	94
Able to read only	8	13	Not stated	33	8

Of the 131,986 children under five years of age, 524 between three and five years of age were classified as able to read only; and all of the 79,834 children under three years were classified as unable to read.

(k) Queensland.—The numbers of Aborigines included in the Table are as follows :—

—	Males.	Females.	—	Males.	Females.
Able to read and write ..	518	474	Unable to read or write, or not stated.	3,252	2,263
Able to read only	92	71

The Nomadic Aborigines, estimated at 20,000 persons, are excluded from the Table. Of the 62,626 children under five years of age, 184 aged three and upwards were returned as able to read only, and 1 was returned as able to read and write; and all of the 37,568 children under three years of age were classified as unable to read or write. Chinese and other coloured aliens unable to read English numbered 20,758, and are included in the column "Unable to Read or Write."

(l) South Australia.—The Aborigines are all included in the column "Not stated." The "Not stated" in the general population appear to have been distributed among the other columns. In the column "Able to Read and Write" are included 1,744 Chinese who can read and write only their own language. Of the 40,077 children under five years of age, 61 were returned as able to read only and 40,016 as unable to read.

(m) Western Australia.—The numbers of Aborigines included in the Table are as follows :—

—	Full-blooded.		Half-caste.
	Males	Females.	Males.	Females.
Able to read and write	27	24	113	102
Able to read only	11	4	10	19
Unable to read or write	2,895	2,300	363	330
Not stated			6	8

Of the 24,377 children under six years of age, 415 aged three years and upwards were classified as able to read and write. and 654 as able to read only; and all of the 13,672 children under three years of age were classified as unable to read or write Of the 1,569 Chinese, 220 were returned as able to read and write English, and 16 as able to read it.

(n) Tasmania.—All the children under five years of age, numbering 20,865, are classified as unable to read.

(o) New Zealand.—The "Not stated" include Maoris (43,143) and Chinese (2,857) who are not shown in the Education Tables in the New Zealand Census. It appears, however, that 385 Chinese were returned as able to read and write English, and 20 as able to read it. Of the 86,793 children under 5 years of age, 277 were classified as able to read, and 86,448 as unable to read; while the degree of education of the remaining 68 was unspecified.

* Includes 130 persons, sex not stated. † Includes Labrador (3,947 persons), where the Return as to sex was incomplete.

(a) England and Wales.—Persons suffering from more than one infirmity (826 males and 952 females) are included in the several columns relating to those infirmities; those returned as dumb only (770 males and 598 females) are included with the deaf and dumb; and those returned simply as deaf (7,699 males and 10,808 females) are included in the column headed "Other Infirmities."

(b) Scotland.—Persons suffering from more than one infirmity (117 males and 111 females) are included in the several columns relating to those infirmities; those returned as dumb only (130 males and 81 females) are included with the deaf and dumb; and those returned simply as deaf (442 males and 676 females) are included in the column headed "Other Infirmities."

(c) Ireland.—In addition to the 4,253 persons returned as totally blind, 577 males and 640 females were returned as partially blind and are excluded from the table.

(d) Isle of Man and Channel Islands.—Persons suffering from more than one infirmity (9 males and 6 females) are included in the several columns relating to those infirmities; those returned as dumb only (13 males and 10 females) are included with the deaf and dumb; and those returned simply as deaf (51 males and 53 females) are included in the column headed "Other Infirmities."

(e) Malta and Gozo.—Persons suffering from more than one infirmity are included in the several columns relating to those infirmities. The column for other infirmities relates to paralytics, epileptics, and apoplectics.

(f) Cyprus.—Persons suffering from any mental infirmity were classified as of "Unsound Mind."

(g) Indian Empire.—Persons suffering from more than one infirmity are included in the several columns relating to those infirmities. The column headed "Lunatics" relates to those classified in the Indian Census as "Insane" although it is probable that the latter term was, in some cases, interpreted widely enough to include Imbeciles. Infirmities were not recorded in parts of Baluchistan and parts of Burma: the total population given in the table is exclusive of these areas.

(h) Ceylon.—The figures for the "Deaf and Dumb" relate only to those persons congenitally afflicted. The Census Returns do not show the number of Lepers in the Colony, but it appears that, at the date of the Census, there were 263 inmates in the Leper Asylum.

(i) Cape of Good Hope.—In the column for "Other Infirmities" are included Epileptics (579 persons), Paralytics (1,198 persons), "Maimed, Lamed, and Deformed" (5,233 persons), Sick (12,741 persons), and suffering from Accident (1,103 persons).

(j) Natal.—In the column for "Other Infirmities" are included 109 persons returned as Deaf, 131 as having "Lost an Eye," 81 as having "Lost a Limb," 129 as Permanently Disabled, 35 as Epileptic, 16 as Paralytic, 4 as Temporarily Disabled, and 7 as Deformed. The persons shown under the heading Lunatics were returned as "Insane"; there were, in addition to these, 175 Native Lunatics in the Government Asylum.

(k) Orange River Colony.—In the column for "Other Infirmities" are included 199 persons returned as Deaf, 424 as having "Lost an Eye" or being "Blind of one Eye," 213 as having "Lost a Limb," 28 as suffering from Accident or Violence, 161 as Crippled (not Accident or Violence), 256 as Epileptic, and 536 as Sick.

(l) Sierra Leone.—Persons suffering from more than one infirmity are included in the several columns relating to those infirmities. The figures in the column for "Other Infirmities" include persons returned as Blind and Deaf (3), Incurable (100), Sick and Infirm in Body (150), Deaf (19), Cripple (19), Paralytic (5), Imbecile and Paralytic (2), Dumb and Paralytic (1), Deaf and Imbecile (1).

(m) St. Helena.—The figures in the column "Other Infirmities," relate to persons returned as Cripples.

(n) Mauritius and Dependencies.—In the Mauritius Census Report the population is classified as Blind, Dumb, Deaf, and Insane. In this Table the Dumb are shown as "Deaf and Dumb"; the Insane, as Lunatics; and the Deaf, in the column "Other Infirmities." It is stated that the return is most unreliable owing to the strong prejudice, especially among the Indian and Arab population, against giving such particulars. The Census Returns do not show the number of Lepers in the Colony, but it appears that, at the date of the Census, there were 51 inmates in the Leper Asylum at Port Louis.

(o) Seychelles Islands.—The infirmities are classified as in Mauritius. (See Note n.)

(p) Dominion of Canada.—The figures in the column "Lunatics" relate to persons classified as of "Unsound Mind." In the case of persons suffering from more than one infirmity the principal one only is given in the table. Thus, of those classified as Blind, 34 were of unsound mind, 16 were deaf and dumb, and 1 was deaf and dumb and of unsound mind; of those classified as Deaf and Dumb, 60 were blind, 88 of unsound mind, and 4 blind and of unsound mind; and of those classified as of Unsound Mind, 18 were blind, 32 deaf and dumb, and 3 blind and deaf and dumb.

(q) Newfoundland and Labrador.—The figures in the column "Lunatics" relate to persons classified as of Unsound Mind; and those in the column "Other Infirmities" to persons returned as deaf.

* Includes 707 persons, sex not stated.

(r) Grenada.—This colony has the custody of the Lunatics of the neighbouring colonies of St. Vincent and St. Lucia.

(s) St. Lucia.—Persons returned as "Deaf" (66), and as suffering from Yaws (70), are included in the column "Other Infirmities." (See also note "r")

(t) British Honduras.—Fifteen persons returned as deaf from birth are included as "Deaf and Dumb"; 54 other deaf persons are shown in the column "Other Infirmities."

(u) Australasia.—The figures are exclusive of the Aboriginal populations in each State, except Victoria, where the number of Aborigines is inconsiderable. The numbers shown in the several Reports as suffering from sickness or accident, and referred to in the following notes, are intended to relate to persons "laid up, or unable to follow usual occupation by reason of illness or accident"; it is evident, however, that, as regards children, the requisite information has in many cases been omitted through a misunderstanding of the instruction on the Schedule. (See Report on Census of Western Australia, page 173.)

(v) New South Wales.—The figures in the column "Lunatics" relate to persons classified as "Insane." Persons returned as suffering from Sickness (8,389 males and 5,129 females), and from Accident (2,127 males and 443 females), are included in the column "Other Infirmities."

(w) Victoria.—Persons returned as suffering from Sickness (8,912 males and 6,278 females), Accidents (2,142 males and 608 females), Eye-affections (519 males and 254 females), Epilepsy (239 males and 218 females), and Paralysis (750 males and 480 females), are included in the column "Other Infirmities."

(x) Queensland.—The subjects of inquiry into the infirmities of the population related only to Sickness, Accident, Deaf-mutism, and Blindness. The numbers returned under the first two headings were 2,622 males and 1,519 females, and 418 males and 66 females respectively, and are included in the column "Other Infirmities." The Census Returns do not show the number of Lepers in the Colony, but it appears that, at the date of the Census, there were 38 inmates in Leper Stations.

(y) South Australia.—In the column "Deaf and Dumb" are included 19 males and 14 females returned as Dumb only. In the column "Other Infirmities" are included the following:—

—	Males.	Females.	—	Males.	Females.
Sickness—
Paralysis	167	104	Accident	293	67
Epilepsy	24	32	Lameness, mutilation, deformity, &c. ..	160	64

(z) Western Australia.—The subjects of inquiry into the infirmities of the population related only to Sickness, Accident, Deaf-mutism and Blindness. The numbers returned under the first two headings were 1,144 males and 432 females, and 284 males and 26 females respectively, and are included in the column "Other Infirmities."

(aa) Tasmania.—In the column "Other Infirmities" are included the following:—

a A Census was taken in Ajmer-Merwara in 1872, but the figures were condemned as incorrect, and those for a Census taken in 1876 are here used.

b The population for 1901 includes the Aboriginal Tribes (1,882 Andamanese, and 6,310 Nicobarese) who were not enumerated previously.

c Assam includes, for the Census of 1901, the Native State of Manipur (population 284,465) and the Lushai Hills (population 82,434). The population for 1891 includes only part of that for the Lushai Hills (estimated at 43,634), and excludes that for Manipur.

d The population here given relates to the year 1867.

e The figures for 1891 and 1901 include those for Upper Burma.

f The population here given relates to the year 1871.

g Madras includes the five Laccadive Islands for the Census of 1901. The population given in the first column refers to the Census of 1871. The population shown for the Census of 1891 has been adjusted for alterations of boundary. These adjustments are not carried further back, so the populations given for the previous Censuses are those actually enumerated.

h The population here given relates to the year 1868.

i The population here given relates to the year 1869, when the first Census of Oudh was taken.

j The population here given relates to the year 1875.

k The population here given relates to the year 1871.

l The population here given includes an estimate made in 1874 for Tehri-Garhwal one of the two States of the United Provinces States.

* NOTE.—With regard to the native population on the Mainland, the rough estimate of their numbers has been arrived at by the following method :—

Registers have been designed to show the number of families in each of the 330 villages, and the number of males and females in each family. These Registers have been issued to village headmen, and complete returns have been received for 50 villages in different parts of the Territory. From these returns it has been estimated that the Average population per village .. .. = 375

Average number of persons per family ... ... = 5
Average proportion of females per cent. of total population = 50.

15. GAMBIA.

NOTE.—The Tables from 1 to 9 inclusive relate to Gambia Colony only. Tables 10 and 11 relate to the Protectorate. It appears that the Census returns have been regarded as incorrect, and in 1903 official estimates were made according to which the area of the Colony and Protectorate is 3,061 square miles, and the population 163,718.

NOTE.—The following is an example of the way in which the above Table should be read:—There were 8,380 husbands who were married at the age of 20, viz., 6 whose wives were 14 at the time of marriage, 55 whose wives were 15, and so on. In 1,162 cases at this age it is not possible to give the age at marriage of the wife, because in those cases the husband and wife were not in the same house on the night of the Census. Almost without exception the husbands married at ages under 16, and the wives at ages under 14, are natives of India or of the Levant.

* Since 1891 the boundaries of these towns have been altered. To Port Adelaide have been added the Corporate Town of Semaphore, and the District Councils of Queenstown and Alberton, and Rosewater, with populations in 1891 of 7,159, 2,632 and 2,344 respectively. In the case of the remainder the alterations have probably affected the populations but slightly.

† The population of the City of Adelaide and suburbs (within a radius of ten miles of the General Post Office) was in 1891, 133,252 persons (63,877 males and 69,375 females), and in 1901 was 162,261 persons (76,689 males and 85,572 females).

TABLE 7.—PERSONS, MALES and FEMALES (exclusive of Maoris), living at each YEAR of AGE, 1901.

NOTE.—It is stated in the New Zealand Census Report that "the figures here given are the numbers at each year of age, compiled from the entries on the Census schedules as made by the householders themselves. A glance at the Table will show that many people, either through ignorance, carelessness, or disregard of truth and accuracy, have set down their ages as at the nearest decennial or quinquennial period (30, 35, 40, &c.). To ascertain the true number living at each year of age, the total numbers in each quinquennial or decennial group should be distributed proportionately over the single years."

61. BRITISH NEW GUINEA.

No Census was taken in this Territory. The area is estimated at 90,540 square miles and the population at 350,000, about 250 being Europeans.

62. PACIFIC ISLANDS.

Under this heading are included the various groups of Islands within the jurisdiction of the High Commissioner of the Western Pacific for which it has been possible to obtain estimates of Area and Population. See Table 2, page 7.

63. OTHER ISLANDS.

Under this heading are included various Islands and groups of groups of Islands which, although British Territory or under British Protection, are not included in any Colony or separate Protectorate, Many of these Islands have no permanent inhabitants, and no statistics have been obtained for them. See note h, Table 2, page 7.

53 to 59.—AUSTRALIAN STATES and NEW ZEALAND.

OCCUPATIONS of MALES and FEMALES for each of the AUSTRALIAN STATES and for NEW ZEALAND, 1901.

NOTE.—At a Conference of Statisticians of the Australasian Colonies held prior to the Census it was decided to adopt a uniform scheme for the Classification of Occupations for each of the States and for New Zealand. This classification may be briefly described as grouping together all persons, in whatever capacity engaged, who are more or less dependent for a livelihood on any one profession, trade, industry, or other pursuit. Thus, the persons classed as "woollen manufacturers" embrace not only the proprietors, overseers, and workers in woollen mills, but also the clerks, labourers, carters, and others employed in connexion with the industry; the term "draper" or "grocer" embraces principals, assistants, clerks, and others employed in, or attached to, drapery or grocery establishments.

In some minor instances uniform methods of classification have not been followed by the several States, the chief differences are referred to in the notes to this Table.

[FORM OF OCCUPIER'S SCHEDULE USED AT THE CENSUS OF ENGLAND AND WALES, 1901.]

ENGLAND AND WALES,
1901.

No. _____

OCCUPIER'S SCHEDULE.

Prepared pursuant to the Census (Great Britain) Act, 1900.

☞ This space to be filled up by the Enumerator.

Name of Occupier.	.....
Postal Address.	.....

NOTICE TO THE OCCUPIER.

In compliance with the Census Act, this Schedule must be filled up by the OCCUPIER or person in charge of the house or tenement.

If a house be let or sub-let to separate persons or Families, each Occupier of a separate tenement or apartment must make a return for his own portion of the house upon a SEPARATE SCHEDULE.

Before filling up the Schedule all the Instructions printed in the Headings and on the back must be read.

This Schedule will be CALLED FOR on MONDAY, April 1st, by the appointed Enumerator.

In order that he may not be delayed, the answers must be written in the proper columns early on the morning of that day. It is the duty of the Enumerator to complete the return if defective, and to correct it if erroneous. The Occupier, if unable to write in the particulars himself, may allow another person to do so.

The Return is required for carrying out the provisions of the Census Act. The contents of the Schedules will be treated as confidential; they will be published in General Abstract only, and strict care will be taken that the Returns are not used for the gratification of curiosity, or for other purposes than those of the Census.

Any Person who REFUSES to give INFORMATION, or who wilfully gives FALSE INFORMATION as to any of the required particulars, is liable, on summary conviction before Justices, to a Fine not exceeding Five Pounds.

REGINALD MACLEOD,
Registrar General.

Approved by the Local Government Board.
WALTER H. LONG,
President.

"OCCUPATION."

1. The precise nature of the occupation must be inserted in Column 6, in accordance with the Instructions given below.

2. A person following more than one occupation should state each of them in the order of their importance. Magistrates, Members of Parliament, and Officials may state their official title, but should not omit to return their profession or ordinary occupation, if they have any.

3. Vague terms, such as Merchant, Broker, Agent, Manufacturer, Contractor, Manager, Superintendent, Foreman, Dealer, Apprentice, Artisan, Mechanic, Machinist, Machine Worker, Factory Hand, Operative, Labourer, &c., must not be used alone. Full and distinctive description of the occupation must be given.

4. Children attending school and also engaged in a trade or industry should be described as following the particular trade or industry.

5. The Occupier's attention is called to the heading of Column 8, in which column the words "At Home" should be entered opposite the names of persons engaged in any trade or industry carried on at home.

6. The ARMY, NAVY, and CIVIL SERVICE.—Persons in these services should state their rank or grade and the branch of the service to which they belong.

7. CLERGYMEN of the Church of England should return themselves as such. PRIESTS and MINISTERS of other religious communities should state to what community they belong—as, "Roman Catholic Priest," "Wesleyan Minister." Local or occasional preachers should return their ordinary occupation, but may also add the fact of their being preachers. Clergymen who are also Schoolmasters should state the fact.

8. LEGAL PROFESSION.—Members of this profession should state whether they are Barristers, Solicitors, Articled Clerks, Barristers' Clerks, Solicitors' Clerks or Law Clerks.

9. SONS or other RELATIVES of FARMERS employed on the farm should be returned as "Farmer's Son," "Farmer's Brother," &c.

10. AGRICULTURAL LABOURERS should be entered according to the particular work on which they are usually engaged—such as, "Shepherd," "Hind," "Carter on farm," "Horse Man on farm," "Horse Keeper on farm," "Teamster on farm," "Waggoner on farm," "Cattleman on farm," "Stockman on farm," "Yardman on farm," "Ordinary Agricultural Labourer," &c. The term "Labourer" must not be used by itself to describe an Agricultural Labourer."

11. SHOPKEEPERS and SHOP-ASSISTANTS should return themselves as such and should also state their branch of business—as, "Grocer-Shopkeeper," "Draper's Assistant," &c. Persons wholly or principally engaged in manufacture or repair—such as, "Journeymen Bakers," "Tailors' Cutters," "Watchmakers," "Bootmakers," &c.—should return themselves as such and not as "Shopkeepers," or "Shop-Assistants."

12. MANAGERS, FOREMEN, SUPERINTENDENTS, OVER-LOOKERS, &c., should state the special branch of trade in which they are employed.

13. NURSES.—The term "Nurse" by itself is too indefinite. The kind of nurse should be stated, as "Hospital Nurse," "Sick Nurse," "Monthly Nurse," "Nurse (domestic)," &c.

14. DOMESTIC SERVANTS should be entered according to the nature of their service, adding in all cases "Domestic." Examples: "Coachman—Domestic," "Gardener—Domestic," "Cook—Domestic," Coachmen, Gardeners, &c., not in Domestic Service, should describe themselves as "Coachman (not domestic)," "Market Gardener," &c.

15. ENGINEERS should fully state the nature of their employment. CIVIL, MECHANICAL, ELECTRICAL, and MINING ENGINEERS should describe themselves as such. ENGINE and MACHINE MAKERS should specify the precise branch of the trade in which they are employed—as, "Steam-engine Maker—Fitter." ENGINE-DRIVERS, STOKERS, FIREMEN should state whether they drive or stoke Railway Engines, Ship's Engines, or Stationary Engines, or whether they are Furnace Stokers—as "Stoker on Steam-ship," "Railway Engine-driver," "Gas Stoker," "Furnace Stoker at Potteries."

16. ARTISANS, MECHANICS and WORKERS in MANUFACTORIES should state not only the general name, but also the particular branch of the industry in which they are engaged, naming, where possible, the material used or article made, thus—"Brass Founder," "Silk-throwster," "Watchmaker—Finisher," "Printer—Composition." Such terms as Founder, Finisher, Printer, Throwster, Machinist, &c., must not be used alone. SEWING MACHINISTS should name the article they machine—as, "Boot Machinist," "Shirt Machinist," &c.

17. WEAVERS, SPINNERS, BLEACHERS, DYERS, &c., should invariably state the material in which they work and the precise process in which they are engaged—such as, "Cotton-spinner," "Silk Weaver," "Cotton card-room hand," "Wool-winder," &c.

18. MINERS and QUARRYMEN should always state the kind of mine or quarry in which they work, and the nature of their employment in or about the mine or quarry—as, "Coal-miner—Hewer," "Lead-miner," "Slate-quarryman." The term "Miner" or "Quarryman" should never be used alone.

19. LABOURERS, PORTERS, CARTERS, should specify the nature of their employment—as, "Railway Porter," "Navvy," "Bricklayer's Labourer," "Labourer in Ship Yards," "Railway Carter," "General Labourer." The term "Labourer," "Porter," &c., should never be used alone.

20. RETIRED.—Persons who have retired from their profession or occupation should state their former calling, with the addition of the word "retired"—as, "Retired Farmer," "Retired Grocer," "Retired Blacksmith."

21. LIVING ON OWN MEANS.—Persons neither following nor having retired from a profession or occupation, but deriving their income from private sources, should return themselves as "Living on own means." Such terms as "Gentleman," "Esquire," &c., must not be used.
